Bevin Charges Russia Stalls Atomic Control

Blasts At West 'Stupid,' British Secretary Says

Challenges USSR To 'Come Out Of Shell'

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP) — Britain's Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin blamed Russia today for stalling international control of atomic energy.

In a blistering policy speech to the United Nations Assembly, Bevin said Britain wants the atomic bomb banned just as much as anyone else but that Britain insists first on effective control. He called Russian blasts against the West on this point "stupid."

The Foreign Secretary challenged the Russians to "come out of their shell," raise their curtain and agree to the control plan approved last year by the General Assembly.

Bevin was applauded heavily by a packed Assembly hall.

The Soviet Union was blasted on two other points in the United Nations.

Peace Pact Plan On Agenda
The 14-member Steering Committee recommended putting Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky's proposal for a Big Five peace pact before the Assembly. The vote was 13 to 0 with Chile abstaining.

United States Delegate Warren R. Austin said the Soviet proposal was put up in the guise of an olive branch while in reality it is surrounded by poisonous thorns.

Austin said the Soviet resolution contains spurious charges but that the United States is perfectly willing to debate them at any time.

Edvard Kardelj, Yugoslav foreign minister, told the Assembly the Russians came here talking peace but in reality are using warlike armed demonstrations to put pressure on Marshal Tito. He said Yugoslavia agrees with the idea of peace and suggested that Russia start by laying off attacks against Yugoslavia.

Bevin took the spot for the chief thrusts at the Soviet Union. In brief, Bevin said:

1. Vishinsky's speech last Friday attacking the Western Powers and then calling for a peace pact can scarcely be a help to achieve peace.

2. Only the determination of the Western Powers to combine against possible aggression in Berlin has (Continued on Page 5, Col. 3)

Hungary Expels Yugo Diplomats
BUDAPEST, Sept. 26 (AP)—The gap between Yugoslavia and the rest of Communist-dominated Eastern Europe widened tonight as Hungary gave 10 members of the Yugoslav legation 24 hours to get out of the country.

The Foreign Ministry handed the legation a sharply-worded note saying the recently concluded Budapest treason trial had proved that Tito's regime had plotted to kick out the Communist Hungarian government, assassinate its leaders, and restore capitalism.

The note added that Hungary will make sure in the future that "spies and assassins" do not come to Hungary disguised as diplomats.

The expelled diplomats included the legation's first counsel, Dusan Sakota, Second Secretary Slavko Zecvic, and Military Attache Kilibarda Mahajlo.

The remaining seven were secretaries and clerical personnel.

Tito Saturday bluntly accused Hungary of joining a "warmongering" scheme to replace his government with one which would be "servile" to Soviet Russia.

Two American Youths Will Be Released By Russians
FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 26 (AP)—Two American youths, Warren Oelsner, 21, Oyster Bay, N. Y., and Peter Sellers, 19, Philadelphia, who have been held by the Russians since August 10, will be released to United States authorities next Wednesday, United States High Commissioner John J. McCloy announced today.

The youths were detained by Soviet authorities as they attempted to bicycle to Berlin without proper papers. The high commissioner's announcement said they will be turned over to young Oelsner's father in Hamburg for their return to the United States.

The announcement did not say

Attlee Cabinet Stakes Life On Parliament Vote

Confidence Motion Will Be Introduced

LONDON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee's government bet its life today on the outcome of a Parliament vote on devaluation of the pound.

At the same time the potent general council of the Trades Union Congress implied it still was withholding support of the government policy.

The Labor Cabinet decided to put a motion of confidence before a three-day emergency session of Parliament which opens tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m., Eastern Standard Time). If it is defeated Prime Minister Attlee would have to ask a dissolution of Parliament and call for a new election at once. Labor's five-year term is not up until next July.

Difficult To Vote "No"
With a sharp eye to such fateful political consequences the Cabinet worded the motion so that it will be difficult for any member to vote against it.

A "no" vote would not only against Britain's 30 per cent slash in the dollar value of the pound; it could also be considered as a vote against economic recovery and fee-less medical service, a measure popular with many people.

Winston Churchill and his Conservatives could attempt to bring the showdown on something like their own political terms, however, by offering amendments to the confidence motion with a clause censuring the government's handling of the economic crisis.

Cripps, TUC Leaders Meet
Churchill summoned tonight his "shadow government," a group prepared to form a government if the Conservatives return to power, for a decision on the party's policy.

Meantime the government sought to win and cement the support of its followers.

Economics Minister Sir Stafford Cripps met the restive leaders of the Trades Union Congress tonight in an effort to convince them it was necessary to devalue the pound from $4.02 to $2.80. The TUC general council, top leaders of 8,000,000 unionized workers who are the backbone of the Labor government, withheld their approval last week.

The Russians have been holding Oelsner and Sellers without demanding the return of three Soviet army deserters from the Americans. It was not learned whether the American authorities had agreed to return any Soviet soldiers in exchange for the release of Oelsner and Sellers.

Nation Faces Year's Worst Labor Crisis

Settlement In One Might Chart Path

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP) — The nation faced the year's worst labor crisis today with strikes threatening in the steel, auto and maritime industries. Walkouts already plagued the coal and rubber industries.

Federal labor experts pinned their hopes for a way out of the morass of labor troubles on two notions. First, that a settlement in one industry might chart a path for the others. Second, that news of Russia's new atomic power may spur domestic labor peace.

But the labor peace prospects look dim at the start of a possibly fateful week for the country's labor relations. There was no indication that any agreement was in sight in the important steel negotiations. Friday night at midnight is the new deadline for a steel strike already three times postponed.

Neither side would say at the end of today's sessions whether any progress had been made. They will meet again tomorrow.

Bethlehem Steel Corporation today offered its employees a contributory insurance plan — and the CIO United Steelworkers turned it down.

Non-Union Mines To Open
No plan seemed to be brewing to end the week-long coal mining strike. John L. Lewis, head of the 480,000 idle miners, apparently was waiting to see what CIO President Philip Murray gets in steel. Coal contract talks are due to resume Wednesday.

Operators of 30 small non-union mines in Pennsylvania planned to reopen their pits tomorrow despite threats of violence from roving pickets. Fourteen operators in the Clearfield area are involved. Reinforced state police forces are patrolling the region.

A picket band of 75 to 100 automobiles gathered near Charleston, W. Va., during the day but no violence was reported.

Labor's demand for pensions, containing the government social security system is inadequate for retirement needs, is a widespread issue. In steel, Murray is demanding an employer-paid pension plan, but the industry wants workers to share the cost. Lewis seeks more money for his near bankrupt welfare fund.

Longshoremen Seek Pensions
Government conciliators said pension demands also are involved in an AFL maritime contract dispute.

Contracts with the AFL's International Longshoremen's Association, covering longshoremen at Atlantic and Gulf Coast docks; and with the AFL's Masters, Mates and Pilots, covering East Coast ship officers, are due to expire Friday midnight.

Federal labor men fear this may be followed by a walkout.

Demands for pensions and social insurance have brought on a strike at Goodrich Rubber Company, but there were reports this one was near settlement.

In the auto industry, the Ford contract with the CIO auto workers union is due to expire at midnight Wednesday. The union has indicated it will call a strike shortly thereafter unless a settlement is in sight. Here again pensions are the main argument.

President Signs Trade Pacts Bill
WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Climaxing a major administration triumph, President Truman today signed the bill which again gives him unhampered power to make tariff-cutting agreements with other nations.

Mr. Truman, in a statement, heralded an attack on international trade and financial restrictions. He said they have mounted since the war and will prevent higher world living standards—"our best insurance of a peaceful future."

"The United States," he said, "reaffirms its intention of pressing forward toward expanded world trade at a time when such action is most urgently needed."

The bill extends until June 12, 1951, the President's right to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements. In these pacts, the United States reduces tariffs on other nation's products. In return for lowered duties on United States goods the President can make reductions as 50 per cent.

Controversial Play Caught By Sequence Camera
Scoring of the tie-breaking tally by Boston Red Sox Third Baseman Johnny Pesky in the eighth inning of yesterday's crucial Yankee Stadium battle between Boston and New York is caught by the sequence camera. At left, Yanks' Catcher Ralph Houk is about to take the throw as Pesky starts his slide. In center, players

crash together and Umpire Bill Grieve watches to call the play. At right, Grieve calls Pesky safe with what proved to be the winning run. Crowd and players roared in strenuous beef at the umpire's decision. Boston won, 7-6, to take over the American League lead. (Story on page 9)

Plane Described As B-29 Bomber Crashes, Burns

Five Bodies Seen In Glow Of Flames

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 26 (AP)—Five bodies were reported seen tonight near the wreckage of an airplane described as an Air Force B-29 which crashed near this South-east Oklahoma town tonight.

City Marshal Jack Bishop said the plane was still afire and it was impossible to get within 100 yards of the wreckage.

He said five bodies were visible in the glow of the flames but he could not determine if others were buried in the debris.

Officers at Tinker Air Force base in Oklahoma City dispatched a rescue party and investigating team to the scene, approximately 150 miles southeast of Oklahoma City.

Reed Taylor, Tulsa, a former Air Force member, described the plane as a B-29. Bishop said the numbers "333" and insignia denoting "15th Air Force" were visible on the tail.

Officers of Smoky Air Force base, Salina, said a B-29 bearing those numbers and carrying a crew of 13 men was on a training flight.

The Air Force Flight Service in Fort Worth said flight plans indicated a B-29 answering such a description stopped at Carswell base, on a "round-robin" flight.

Bishop said witnesses near the scene said the plane had circled, indicating that it was headed north for Fort Worth.

Mexican Plane Crashes
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 26 (AP)—The commander of the airport said a Mexican commercial airliner "has suffered an accident" at the foot of Popocatepetl volcano.

He said nothing was known of the fate of the 21 persons aboard. The plane was returning on a local flight from Tapachula on the border with Guatemala.

Pedro Souza, airport commander, said the plane belonged to the Compania Mexicana de Aviacion. There were conflicting reports as to whether it was a regular or a charter flight. Souza said the accident was reported by soldiers patrolling the slopes of the volcano which lies south of Mexico City.

Deanna Seeks Divorce
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26 (AP)—Actress Deanna Durbill filed suit for divorce today from Felix Jackson, film director, charging desertion and mental cruelty.

The 26-year-old singing actress and her husband have been separated since January 6, 1947, her complaint said.

Senate Approves Measure Giving Members Of Armed Forces October 1 Pay Hike

Truman Asks Boosts For Cabinet Officials

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Senate today passed a bill to give most members of the armed forces an October 1 pay boost totalling more than $300,000,000 a year. It embodies the first general revision of salary scales in 40 years.

Action was by voice vote. The bill now goes to a conference with the House, which earlier approved a bill carrying identical raises for all except a few top grades.

The Senate version would boost scales in widely varying amounts ranging from $5 a month for recruits with five months' service to $300 or more a month for generals with over 30 years' service.

Truman Urges Cabinet Hikes
The increases are generally higher for officers than for enlisted men. Congressmen have explained there has been no general pay raise in the top ranks for 40 years, while enlisted men have had increases.

Senate approval of the measure came a few hours after President Truman urged that it also approve salary hikes for Cabinet officials and other top government administrators.

An informal committee of senators met, meanwhile, to revise this bill to limit the top increases to 50 per cent. This would hold Cabinet salaries to $22,500 a year, rather than the $25,000 now called for in the bill. Their salaries are now $15,000.

No Opposition Voiced
The time for voting on the military pay bill had been fixed Friday. But when it developed that no one wanted to speak on it in mid-afternoon, the Senate recessed for an hour and a quarter. No opposition was voiced.

Some have developed toward other pay raise bills scheduled for consideration next. One of these, already passed by the House, would affect Cabinet and other high level officials.

Mr. Truman said this opposition surprised him. He wrote a letter to Vice President Barkley, Barkley had it read to the Senate.

"I urge the Senate to act favorably upon this legislation which will do so much to help me in properly discharging the duties of my office," the President wrote.

Freedom Fair Funds
WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Senate today voted $3,000,000 for a Freedom Fair here next year in commemoration of Washington's 150th anniversary as the national capital.

Tokyo Rose Fate In Jury's Hands
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26 (AP)—Did the woman known as Tokyo Rose have treason in her heart when she made wartime broadcasts from Japan?

Six men and six women debated that today. They made up the federal court jury which for 12 weeks had heard testimony and arguments in the treason trial of Mrs. Iva Toguri D'Aquino, 33, Los Angeles-born.

At 11:44 a. m. PST today Chief Federal Judge Michael J. Roche concluded his instructions and the jury withdrew to consider its verdict.

War-time treason could be punished by death, but the government did not ask this penalty for the woman.

She and her attorneys claimed that under duress Mrs. D'Aquino obeyed Japanese military orders to broadcast in prisoner of war programs over Radio Tokyo. She said she went to Japan before the war to visit an aunt who was ill; that when war came she tried unsuccessfully to get passage home to Los Angeles.

Eventually, she testified, she was compelled to broadcast. This was confirmed, she declared, to introductions to soft and appealing music.

Judge Roche talked slowly and with considerable emphasis for an hour and 50 minutes in summing his instructions to the jury.

For conviction to be warranted, he said, there must be proof of "treasonable intent."

"If there was no intent to betray, there was no treason," he asserted.

Oklahomans To Vote On Prohibition Repeal
OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26 (AP)—Oklahoma's 42-year-old constitutional ban against hard liquors goes before voters tomorrow.

A constitutional amendment to repeal prohibition will be voted upon at a special election. Also on the ballot is a $36,000,000 bond issue for public buildings.

Germans Making Russian Rockets, Informants Say

Chain Of Launching Platforms Erected

BERLIN, Sept. 26 (AP)—German scientists are producing for Russia transoceanic rockets they designed for Hitler just before the war ended, Soviet zone informants claimed today.

The informants, who have access to offices of the Soviet-backed East German police, said the mammoth underground munitions plant at Peenemuende on the Baltic coast, is turning out rockets at full speed.

Allied intelligence officers said they know of "certain activity" at Peenemuende but declined to elaborate. One of them explained:

"High Level Matter"
"If Russia is making munitions in Germany it's a high level matter and not for discussion here."

At the end of the war the victorious Allies agreed that Germany's war potential should be destroyed.

The new rocket, said the German informants, was dubbed "Fire Lily" by the Nazis who never had a chance to use it.

The name comes from the way the rocket blossoms into eight to ten separate aerial bombs when it arrives over the target, scattering destruction over a three square-mile area, informants said. Its range and accuracy are enough, the report said to hit a target 5,000 miles away.

Earlier today both Allied and German sources confirmed that Russia had installed a chain of rocket launching platforms in Eastern Europe, stretching all the way from the Baltic to the Black Sea.

Peenemuende Rebuilt
Peenemuende was wrecked by Allied bombers during the war, and then rebuilt by Russia, with labor from the war prisoner camp at Blagovostroi in the Ural Mountains, the informants said.

Russian technicians supervised the installation of machinery, but Germans who built the rockets for Hitler's war machine are said to be in charge of rocket production begun early this year.

Material for research and testing is sent to Peenemuende from the Aeronautical Institute of Voroshilovgrad and from a Moscow institute.

Production of "Fire Lilies" is carried out in the vast underground caverns which the Nazis fitted out for rocket and torpedo plants and testing grounds, the sources said.

Trumans See Sarah
WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—President and Mrs. Truman motored 26 miles tonight to Olney, Md., to witness a performance by Sarah Churchill, daughter of the former British prime minister.

Miss Churchill appeared in a benefit performance of the "The Philadelphia Story" at the Olney Summer Playhouse preliminary to an engagement of several nights.

He was told the county is too tax-poor to provide the money for completely efficient school operation.

The pastor looked up his own tax valuation and found he paid only on a valuation of $500 for his personal possessions.

"Why, the books in my own library are worth more than that. Too long have we emphasized only the text about God and forgotten Caesar, which is actually the government."

"When we deny Caesar, our community life suffers. We can talk about what we want, but if we cheat the tax collector it's double talk. And when we indulge in double talk, our spiritual life suffers."

"We cannot short change either God or the tax collector."

Pastor, Practicing What He Preaches, Asks Tax Boost
CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 26 (AP)—Pastor Eugene M. Austin, of the Baptist Temple, positively practices what he preaches.

He renders "unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's" and wants his parishioners to do likewise.

To a startled congregation Dr. Austin disclosed yesterday he had voluntarily gone to the courthouse and asked that his personal property assessment be increased six times.

He then went into his text, to render unto Caesar and "unto God the things that are God's."

Dr. Austin explained he was moved to action after investigating a public school at his congregation's request.

He found teachers taking time out from classes to man mops and

Efforts To Cut Bill Discarded By Conferees

House Bill, Which Called For Less, Is Tossed Overboard

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP) — Aroused by the atomic blast in Russia, a Senate-House conference committee today swiftly approved a $1,314,010,000 plan to arm foreign nations against Communism.

With the non-Communist world stirred by evidence that the Soviets have the atom-bomb, all efforts to chop the bill were thrown into the discard. House members of the conference committee tossed overboard the House bill, which called for $444,555,000 less than the $1,314,010,000 voted by the Senate.

The conference committee was appointed to reconcile the differences between Senate and House measures. Although it approved the main features of the bill today, the committee still has several minor points to iron out before the legislation can go to Senate and House for final approval.

Urgently Sought By Truman
The measure, urgently sought by President Truman, is designed to supply arms to signers of the North Atlantic security treaty, and to other nations under the shadow of Russia's armed might.

It includes: $1,000,000,000 for the North Atlantic pact nations of Western Europe. $211,370,000 for Greece and Turkey.

$27,640,000 for Iran, Korea and the Philippines.

$75,000,000 to be used in the China area at the discretion of the President.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, announced the conference decision to reporters.

Connally Praises Kee
Connally gave high praise to Chairman Kee (D-WVa.), of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and the House members who sat in the conference.

"Chairman Kee and his committee members rendered distinguished service to reach these agreements," Connally said.

Connally said he expected to finish the bill tomorrow. It is expected to get quick approval in both houses and then go to the President for his signature.

When signed by the President, the authorization would make $125,000,000 available immediately to get the arms aid flowing.

Later, separate appropriations bills must be put through to provide the rest of the funds.

Big Four Ministers Discuss Austria Pact
NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers met informally tonight in a vain attempt to agree on an Austrian independence treaty.

A brief communique issued after the three and one half hour meeting said only that they had discussed the treaty and probably would meet again Wednesday.

Diplomatic sources said after the session that practically no progress was made and that the entire session was devoted to a part of only one article of the proposed treaty.

The treaty would give Austria complete independence and allow her to join either the Western or Eastern bloc.

The treaty would also require Austria to remain neutral and to disarm her military forces.

Strikers Still Optimistic As Film Walkout Hobbles Into Fourth Year

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 26 (AP)—Hollywood's film strike—remember? hobbled into its fourth year today with many of the strikers still optimistic about a settlement.

The only visible signs now of the bitter conflict that staggered the film colony and almost halted production are lonely pickets sitting quietly under the sun outside studio gates.

The same gates where, when the strike was new, thousands of pickets formed human barriers to block duty-bound workers. Where platoons of police fought strikers wielding sticks, bottles, bricks and fists. Where the mobs smashed bus windows and overturned cars.

The strike—or lockout, depending on which spokesman you heed—was triggered by two rival AFL unions. Both the Conference of Studio Actors and the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees claimed jurisdiction over some 350 set construction jobs.

How it started again depends on which side you take. The Brotherhood of Carpenters, a CSU affiliate, holds that the studios fired its men. The studios, labeling it a jurisdictional affair, assert that the carpenters walked out. The IATSE claims the national AFL gave it jurisdiction over the jobs.

That was when the CSU—then a group of 12 unions which claimed about 7,000 of the 30,000 movie employees—began the mass picketing. Violence began early and occurred sporadically for months.

When the hordes at the gates got out of control, a court forbade mass picketing. It was defied. One day 400 pickets battled 200 sheriff's deputies. Studio power and telephone cables were cut. Stars employed bodyguards. Pickets flashed sunlight into camera lenses. Several non-striker's homes were damaged by explosive and acid bombs.

More than 1,100 persons were charged with strike violence. Tried in batches in a rented hall, many were fined. Herbert K. Sorrell, leader of the CSU, was indicted for conspiracy to violate the mass picketing injunction. He was later acquitted, along with eight others.

As the strike dragged on, it began losing support. Some unions began crossing the picket lines. Several CSU affiliates quit the union. Eventually, almost all the strikers took jobs in other industries, although officially the union still holds that it's remaining, 4,000 members are locked out.

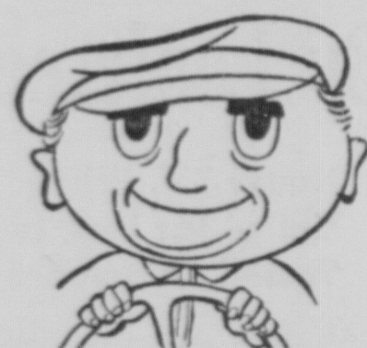

TUGBOAT'S "ALERT" BUT TRUCK'S NOT—Land-going trucks are supposed to stay on the road and when they decide to go to sea there's usually trouble. This one plunged through a fence on Franklin Street in Oakland, Calif., and ran, or leaped, on to the bow of the tugboat Alert moored along the waterfront. The adventurous truck was pulled back on to dry land and the tug chugged off to mid stream, where things are much safer.

The dispute didn't continue for lack of offers of assistance.

A congressional labor subcommittee held hearings and attempted to negotiate a settlement. The AFL Executive Council set up arbitration machinery that broke down after stormy sessions. A Catholic archbishop, a major studio representative, and the Interfaith Council, a church group, offered to act as peacemakers.

But neither side would back down. The strikers have pinned their hopes on a multi-million dollar suit filed against the major studios, set for trial in December. They are asking reinstatement plus treble damages.

Shiny Boots, Black Beards, Disappearing From Russia

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This story on some aspects of life in present-day Russia has passed through the Moscow censorship. Readers are reminded that this censorship may reject and kill out parts of stories that it considers reflect unfavorably on the Soviet Union.)

By EDDY GILMORE
MOSCOW.—(P)—The day of the Russian in a long black beard and short shiny boots has gone.

Soviet people dress like other people on the European continent. For men, dark clothes are preferred over light. The double-breasted jacket is popular. The felt hat is rapidly replacing the cap. Neckties are fairly subdued in tone. Bowties are steadily growing more popular.

In winter the fur cap is not only stylish, but highly desirable for comfort's sake. Nearly every male between the age of two and 80 wears one. In summer many men go bareheaded, or wear colorful round skullcaps with designs from the Central Asian republics. Shoes are more to be seen than the traditional Russian boot.

The new look has not caught on in Soviet cities, but skirts are slightly longer than they have been. Hats and veils are ever more popular.

High heels and wedge shoes are favored by younger women and girls in the towns and cities. A Soviet nylon stocking is worn by many women. Silk stockings are favored by middle-aged and older women.

Skirts and sweaters are always liked by Russian girls. The bright handkerchief around the hair is often worn by young girls and a clear white one by older women. But this is far more common in small towns and villages than in the cities. Hats, from the milliner, or the store, are the thing nowadays.

How do the Russian city dwellers buy all these things? Manufacturing of clothes and the sale of them of course are the responsibility of the state. Most of the clothes come from state factories and state stores.

While there are no stores operated for private profit, there are numerous tailors, hat makers and boot and shoe makers in the USSR.

These artisans will make you any kind of suit, dress, hat or shoe you want. You may supply them with the material, or they'll do the supplying. It's cheaper, of course if you do the supplying.

Located in every town and city in the country are department stores. Moscow has one very large one in the center of the city which sells everything from Soviet-made lipstick to Soviet-manufactured bicycles and bass fiddles.

Big cities such as Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev, Kharkov, Odessa, Tiflis and Rostov abound in specialty shops selling ties, shirts, shoes and men's underwear—and others that cater to the tastes of women looking for hats, silk underwear, blouses, shoes, dresses and sweaters.

There are special fur shops where you can buy mink coats and sables. Then there are always the commission shops which handle the sale of clothes and other objects for private citizens on a percentage basis.

Noted Throat Specialists report on 30-Day Test of Camel Smokers...

NOT ONE SINGLE CASE OF THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

Yes, these were the findings of noted throat specialists after a total of 2,470 weekly examinations of the throats of hundreds of men and women who smoked Camels—and only Camels—for 30 consecutive days.

THOUSANDS MORE AGREE!

"The 30-Day Test opened my eyes! Smoking is really fun when I smoke Camels!" Skater Jinx Clark.

"How long have I smoked Camels? Years! Camels suit me to a T!" Adam Toney, bridge maintenance.

"Camels passed my smoking test (100%)! They agree with my throat and taste so good!" Pilot Mary Morrison.

"My test of Camels has been going on for years! And Camels cheers my taste!" Golfer Gene Sarazen.

"Camels gave me a lesson in smoking pleasure. They taste good and mild!" Telephone operator Rita Edwards.

"Mildest cigarette I ever smoked! A change to Camels was for the better!" Billiard star Willie Mosconi.

"I made my own test. I found Camels the mildest, best tasting cigarette!" Mary Goodfellow, hat designer.

"I never knew how enjoyable smoking could be until I changed to Camels!" Gladys Swarthout, opera star.

Long Island housewife EDNA WRIGHT made the 30-Day Test. Her throat specialist reported no sign of throat irritation due to smoking Camels.

MY DOCTOR'S REPORT WAS NO SURPRISE TO ME... CAMELS AGREED WITH MY THROAT RIGHT FROM THE START! AND CAMELS MAKE SMOKING SUCH WONDERFUL FUN!

Start your own 30-Day Camel Mildness Test Today!

You have the word of Camel smokers... of noted throat specialists, too... but prove it for yourself. Smoke Camels for 30 days. Compare them in your "T-Zone" (T for taste, T for throat). See if you don't agree that Camels are the mildest, best-tasting cigarette you ever smoked!

Breath-taking new 1950 Studebaker!

IT'S THE "NEXT LOOK" IN CARS

ALL OVER AMERICA, all eyes are on this dramatically different 1950 Studebaker.

All over America, millions of people are talking about it—the most sensational advance in automobile style since Studebaker introduced the first "new look" in cars three years ago.

This 1950 Studebaker is long, low, luxurious—but how trim, sleek and flight-streamed it is! No bulging excess bulk to squander gasoline!

Stop in and get a close-up eyeful of this breath-taking Studebaker "next look" in cars. From that gleaming aero-curve front end to those flight-streamed rear fenders, it has the lines and the lure of something jet-propelled!

Stand-out advancements mark this 1950 Studebaker!

Higher compression Champion and Commander engines of increased horsepower • Self-stabilizing coil spring front wheel suspension • Wide-rim wheels and extra-low pressure tires • Brakes automatically adjust themselves • Symmetrically centered variable ratio steering • Oversize windows and windshield • Glare-proof "black light" instrument panel dials.

An Aid Comes From Detroit To Murray

There will be no steel strike at least until after Saturday. But if the agreement of the steelworkers and the operators to the presidential proposal for an extension of the truce which would have expired last week ago is a bright spot in the nation's strike picture, it is not due to anything that Philip Murray or the steel executives have done.

The extension of the truce does not mean that the steel disputants are any closer to an agreement. They are still bogged down over the issue of whether the recommendations of the President's fact-finding board are to be used as basis for negotiations in the accepted sense of the word, or whether those recommendations must be accepted outright by the steel companies before talks resumed.

The companies knew at the start that, in the normal course of human events, the board would hardly reject all of the union's demands. The best they could hope for was a compromise, and a compromise is what was offered them in the rejection of higher pay demands and approval of pensions and insurance at their exclusive expense.

Suspecting at the beginning that this would happen, the companies went to great lengths to make clear that any recommendations of the board would not be legally binding on either side. Those recommendations are not binding, but Murray promptly accepted them, undoubtedly feeling that if the companies turned them down and a strike resulted, his steel workers could count on support of public opinion as well as the favor of the White House.

Thus far, the companies have refused to bargain "on the basis" of the board's plan. One reason must be that they cannot be sure just what that basis is. Does it mean that they would begin collective bargaining with the admission that employers should, as a matter of principle, pay for pensions over and above the Federal Social Security program, to which both employers and employees contribute? Does it mean that they would accept in advance the 10-cent per hour cost of pensions and insurance? Or does it mean, as Mr. Murray seems to assume, that they must concede both points? So far, the companies have agreed to nothing save resumption of collective bargaining on the general question of pensions and insurance.

While it is possible that Mr. Murray and the steelworkers are sensitive to public opinion, that may not be the main reason for their willingness to accept the truce. It is more likely that recent events in Detroit have had a potent influence on that decision. A new and powerful aid has come to Mr. Murray in the form of the Ford Motor Company's offer of a company-financed pension plan to the United Automotive Workers.

Thus while the chances improve that a strike against Ford will be averted, the acceptance by Ford of the spirit of the steel fact-finding board's theory of pension payments may have repercussions throughout all industry. It may well have the effect of setting the very pattern which the steel companies and many sound-thinking economists argue is contrary to the national welfare. Ford's action will make it harder for the steel companies to stick to their position.

It was a westerner who wrote "as beautiful as an army with banners." But he wasn't referring to the Russian army.

Autumn Has Come To Cumberland Fanfareless

Fall has come to Cumberland. No bell sounded, no whistle blew, no bomb was set off, but the season arrived just the same, welcome or no. At 4:06 standard time Friday morning Summer bowed off the stage and autumn took the spotlight.

Thus a peculiar-Summer came to an end. It was no record-breaker, but it had its unusual aspects. July was marked by prolonged and unpleasantly humid heat. August, too, had its hot spells, although there was an interlude of relief or two. September, on the other hand, was a pleasant month, without the usual blasts of heated air that normally make some of its days uncomfortable. Actually, it could be said, Summer and August departed together.

Ahead is a glorious season. It is the time when foliage takes on brilliant colors, when frost sneaks up quietly to give the landscape a grey coating on misty, crisp mornings. Before, three months hence, Winter comes along, there may have been some snow upon the ground.

Each of us has his favorite season. To some Spring is the loveliest time of the year. To others Autumn holds the crown, lasting all too brief a moment. These latter now have their opportunity to revel over a golden landscape that makes of this area a sparkling wonderland. Favorite or not, Autumn is hard to beat.

A motor yielding up to 70 miles a gallon is predicted. Then what will the highway departments do for revenue.

Ahoy, 1952!

It is probably true, as the item said, that sailors of the United States Navy have been finding fault with their uniforms ever since the Navy was founded in 1775. For in all that time the uniform has changed very little.

But the changes to be achieved by 1952—presumably the present stocks of clothing will be worn out by then—are enough to make sailor or landlubber suspect that maybe Admiral Lord Nelson is dead after all. (Black neckerchiefs were originally worn in mourning for him, and the U. S. Navy has sort of trailed along.)

The word comes there will be pants pockets in blue breeches. Instead of the 13-button drop fronts—in fond memory of the 13 original states?—these blue pants will have zippered fronts.

The bell-bottom flare of the trousers will be kept. Complaints about this sea-going style have always been shouted down by the majority of sailors. So have suggestions about trading the open-necked jumpers for short military jackets.

There are practical reasons for keeping the general style in force. Aboard ship there's simply not enough room to have a locker big enough to hang his clothes in. He keeps them rolled just so—and they are always pressed ready to put on.

Can a sailor look sharp with bulging pockets? It's a safe bet he'll keep the bulge to a minimum—in grateful appreciation of being allowed to have pockets at all.

The Genesis of Peptic Ulcer

Do peptic ulcers result from an emotional disorder or are they caused by too much acid? This question cannot be answered at the present time due to the controversial nature of the subject. Both may play a role, since the combination of emotional upsets and excess acid is not present in all patients.

Because the glands secreting digestive juices, including hydrochloric acid, are controlled by the nervous system, the relationship between the brain and the stomach is easily understood. During anger, anxiety, or excitement the nerves stimulate the gastric pouch and in this respect, the psychic element enters the picture. This leads to more acid, which may have an adverse effect on the wall of the stomach. This is the basis behind the vagotomy operation in peptic ulcer. By cutting certain nerves, the brain theoretically is divorced from the stomach so that nervous stimuli no longer have an effect and the amount of acid decreases. As a rule, ulcer pains subside and general improvement occurs. But a stomach devoid of nerves is not necessarily normal and other unpleasant sensations are likely to exist until the organ becomes used to the change.

In the more conservative ulcer treatment, physicians prescribe a diet that discourages stimulation of acid along with alkalis to neutralize it. Moreover, they strongly urge sufficient rest and the avoidance of excitement and overwork. This is logical, provided the acid is an important as we believe.

But a new discovery of a few years ago may make the profession change its mind. The lining of the stomach and the first part of the small intestine (duodenum) is covered with mucus secreted by its glands. This gooey substance protects the cells from pepsin and acid, a necessary job when we consider the gastric juices are strong enough to digest meats as tough as the wall of the stomach itself. It was found recently that an enzyme, lysozyme, a natural constituent of the stomach and duodenum, controls the secretion of the protective mucus. Too much of the enzyme reduces the mucus and vice versa. Research continued and it now appears that in ulcer patients two to three times as much lysozyme as normal is present. This perhaps is the clue to the ulcer problem. At least, it might be said that something besides acid is responsible.

But what controls the production of lysozyme? Studies have demonstrated that the glands secreting this material are under the influence of the nervous system. This in turn brings us back to the psychic factors and lends support to the theory that the ulcer has its inception in the brain. If emotional tension is more or less constant, the stomach is forced to manufacture more of the enzyme which in turn reduces the quantity of mucus and leaves the wall of the stomach to the mercy of pepsin and acid. Ulcer formation follows.

This newer research has interested other ideas. Will the ulcer remedy of the future contain an antidote for lysozyme or will it be a preparation that will affect the nervous system? It may be that every physician will have to brush up on his psychiatry if he wants to treat the ulcer patient successfully. To complicate matters, we are hearing rumors that the amount of sugar in the blood is a factor. After all, diabetics rarely develop peptic ulcer and, when vagotomy is done, the nerves that are severed are the same as those that go to the pancreas. This in turn will influence insulin secretion and sugar metabolism. If there is anything to the theory, the ulcer patient should not allow his blood sugar to go too low. By eating more frequently, and consuming the more stable foods, this can be prevented.

VARICOSE VEINS
I. D. writes: What symptoms do varicose veins cause?

Reply
None, in most instances, except for their unsightly appearance. On the other hand, pain, tenderness, and puffiness develop should the veins become inflamed. Skin ulcers, discoloration, and swelling of the ankles also may occur as complications.

USELESS
U. W. writes: I am 75 years old and my eyes are growing weak. Friends tell me that wearing solid gold earrings are beneficial. Is there anything to this?

Reply
No. Neither will silver, pearl, plastic, or tin earrings help.

SLUGGISH LIVER
H. G. writes: What is meant by a sluggish liver?

Reply
I have often wondered myself about the meaning of this lay and advertising expression. It may indicate that the liver is not hitting on all four or that the flow of bile is not up to par. If the latter condition exists, the cause usually lies with the gall bladder rather than the liver.

Russia's Procession of Atom Bomb Calls For Revolutionary Diplomacy; Christ's Principles Must Enter Foreign Affairs; We Must Win Over Russians

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. — Last week's news that Russia had unleashed her own atom bomb caused this writer to do some digging into his own columns written during the Christmaside immediately after the first A-bomb was exploded.

We have all become a little more calloused, a little more hard-boiled, a little more weary than in those breathtaking days when the war was just over in 1945. But the ideas set forth at that time probably apply just as much as ever, and with apologies they are reprinted herewith:

"Sometimes it takes the abyss of pessimism and hopelessness to arouse people to new and revolutionary measures.

"The atom is a revolutionary weapon, the most revolutionary in all history. It needs revolutionary diplomacy to combat it. Old-fashioned talks between three or four diplomats, who sit for a few days around a green baize table and then issue brief communiques to the public aimed to cover up what they didn't accomplish, will not cure the gnawing suspicion, the selfish ambition, the lust for power that breeds war.

Christ Was Revolutionary
"Only diplomacy of the most revolutionary kind, based upon the Sermon on the Mount can counteract the revolutionary weapon of the atom bomb. Many of us have forgotten that Christ was a revolutionary. Sometimes the world has forgotten this just as woefully and completely as it has forgotten the principles which he taught.

"At the time Christ was born, a much higher standard of moral ethics existed than there is in the world today, and the prophets of Israel had repeatedly warned their people that if they did not live up to those standards they would be destroyed.

"Later Jesus epitomized all this teaching and brought forth the highest expression of moral and ethical standards ever given to man in the Sermon on the Mount.

"Now, 2,000 years later, in the heart of Christian Europe, where more professed Christians live than anywhere else on the globe people have virtually destroyed themselves with a war of their own making. They chose to disregard the teachings to which they gave lip-service.

World's End
"In the United States a scientific capsule has been given man which offers the world two distinct and definite alternatives:

"1. We can get into another war and see the globe made into a ball of fire by the hand of man himself; or

"2. We can use practical Christianity to prevent war, and by harnessing the energy of the atom, make the world a virtual Garden of Eden.

"Perhaps the prophets of Israel have now come back as scientists of the atom to warn us that the end of the world can come, not by flood but by fire.

"The problem is immediate and urgent. We have to decide now whether we are going to fight for peace just as vigorously as we fought for war, or whether we are going to drift—which eventually means another war.

"We have got to make up our minds whether we are going back to the basic teachings of the man who was born 2,000 years ago and whether we are going to carry them out militantly—as militantly as connoted by the hymn, 'Onward, Christian Soldiers'....

Heading Off War
"Congress doesn't seem to realize that the time to head off war is long before it starts. And if they would spend a fraction as much money harrowing the international ground for peace as they paid for the weapons of war, then the next generation could live in security.

"No good businessman would ever think of neglecting his advertising or of hiring poor salesmen to make the round of customers. He would go out of business in no time. But as a nation fail to apply the same good business practice in regard to the most sacred thing in our possession—the lives of the next generation. We select diplomats for political reasons, or because they have enough private cash to live abroad on the miserly salaries we pay them; and we fail to give them an advertising campaign to supplement their work.

"This may not sound much like religion. But to me religion is a question of doing, not merely having faith. As I understand Christ's teaching it is a doctrine of going out and administering to others, and if necessary, rowing with money-changers and driving them out of the temple.

Selling The Idea

"Christ was a man who went out and worked at his religion. He didn't stay in one place. He didn't hide his candlestick under a bushel. He battled so hard for his cause of peace on earth, good will toward men, that eventually he sacrificed his life.

"He had what he thought was a great idea and he traveled day and night trying to sell it.

"Now we in this country have a great form of government and a great basic concept of getting along with our neighbors. And it's time we went out as Christ did and tried to sell our American religion.

"We can't sit passive in big, ornate houses as most of our ambassadors do, giving ritzy cocktail parties for upper-crust old ladies and other hasbems. Our diplomats have got to go out and talk to the real folks that make up the backbone of the country.

"This is not just theory. It works out in practice that when the people of a country are behind you, and don't have to worry about their government, their government—even an out-and-out dictatorship—can't make war on you. The people won't let 'em.

"However, if the Russian people are fed by a controlled press and radio only what their politburo wants them to know about us, then the problem becomes more difficult. The boys in the Kremlin are now much more afraid of the spread of democracy than we are of communism. They are adopting exactly the same system toward us that for 17 foolish years the State Department adopted toward them.

"They don't want their people to mix with ours, they don't want American newspapermen or preachers to circulate over there. They don't even like children of the Russian embassy in Washington going to our schools.

"This makes the problem difficult but not insoluble. After all, use of the atom up until a short time ago was considered insoluble.

"The solution, as I see it, is to go over the heads of the Soviet isolationists and win over the Russian people."

The above ideas, written in December 1945 when Russia did not have the A-bomb, are even more appreciable today when she has.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

The Beria Bomb: I

WASHINGTON—THE timetable of American strategic planning has been wholly upset by former NKVD chief Lavrenti Beria's success in perfecting a Soviet atomic bomb. The joint chiefs of staff picked 1952, rather than 1949, as the year in which Soviet atomic stockpiling was likely to begin. This means simply that the timetable must be drastically revised, if the strategic balance of power is not to shift disastrously in favor of the Kremlin.

Beria's triumph does not mean that the balance of power has already shifted, overnight. There is still some time in which either to achieve an agreement with the Russians on control of atomic energy, or else to confront the Russians with overwhelming power, despite their possession of an atomic stockpile. These are, clearly, our only remaining alternatives. How much time we have left depends largely on how quickly the Russians can overcome two obstacles.

Russians Face Shortages

The first of these is the problem of raw materials. Unless American and British information is disastrously wrong, the Russians are confronted with a serious shortage of uranium and thorium. Their main sources are the Erzgebirge mines in the Soviet zone of Germany and the Jachymov mines in Czechoslovakia. There are believed to be subsidiary sources in Eastern Europe, Turkistan, Sinkiang, Siberia and Central Russia. But the fissionable material in these secondary sources is limited and of very low grade.

A Flexible, Not A Single Plan Of Defense Necessary

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Russia may have inadvertently performed a salutary service to the United States by exploding an A-bomb and telling the world she has manufactured what Americans so long thought was a secret weapon.

For Russia's action may also have exploded the one-weapon theory of defense which has recently dominated the military thinking of the top planners in the United States. Concentration on strategic bombing, thought popularly to be our greatest strength now may prove our biggest weakness.

Certainly all plans will have to be revised radically both from the offensive and defensive standpoint since Russia has proved to us that it is an illusion to depend on mere technology or improved weapons to map out a winning strategy.

For while Congress has cherished this illusion for four years—that America has a "long lead" in technology which can protect her safety—it now becomes evident that reliance on such alleged superiority can lead still further along the path of mistaken assumptions. Technology goes to a common source—and Russia has good scientists, too.

How Future War Looks

A future war—if it's with Russia—now looks like this:

1. Theoretically Russia would start the war only when she is ready and in Pearl Harbor fashion—four or five years hence or even later meanwhile keeping the defending nations in a state of anxiety with their economic burdens increasing constantly to support armament expenditures.

2. Russia already possesses jet fighter planes equal to or superior to anything which the United States has today. This means her long range bombers of the B-29 type protected by jet fighters can overrun Europe and support her advancing armies of foot soldiers.

3. Strategic bombing from 40,000 feet by B-36's is not accurate bombing. It is "area bombing" and while it can destroy large numbers of persons it doesn't destroy underground factories and military installations. Terror bombing will not affect the Russians any more than it did the British.

4. The fixed bases in Europe or Alaska from which our B-36's or other planes would fly can be put out of commission by sudden attack without warning as happened in Pearl Harbor. This means a loss of initiative to us. Intercontinental bombing is of little avail if the Russian armies start the war suddenly and overrun continental Europe and thus make it unlikely that the A-bomb would be used by us for "area bombing" of the cities of very people who are allied with us.

5. Against such a sudden war there is no defense through a single weapon, either the B-36 carrying the A-bomb or by any other weapon on land or sea or in the air.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Profits

It is not often that I give you a letter from a reader, but occasionally one is so worthy that it ought to be given the widest circulation. This one comes from the St. Paul Dispatch and I give it in full:

"Sir: Although I enjoy reading her Mail Bag letters, I can't experience the distress registered by a contributor over George Sokolsky's remarks about profit. Frankly, I was born without acquisitive talents. If I ran a haberdashery as Harry Truman did before the Pendegast machines salvaged him, I would fall just as Harry failed.

"Faced by the financial problems Hubert Humphrey faced as Mayor of Minneapolis, I'd make as miserable a mess as Hubert made of Minneapolis finances. I'm as dumb about such matters as these proved themselves to be—but I don't hate him who does have the natural ability to operate a business successfully. He is my meat. All others, including our welfare-state government, shake me down for every last shakel, but he pays me an income. Through those who operate at a profit, all of us ride instead of walk, eat instead of starve, are housed, heated and clothed.

"I don't hate the man through whose enterprise I have a radio, telephone, electricity, etc.—even if he owns six houses, ten cars and 20 overcoats to my one. These all mean jobs and money for someone like me. Instead, I hate the moron who tries to keep him from making a profit.

"WORTH STEWART.

"St. Paul." The fact is that without profits there can be no growth and no development. In some countries, particularly in Great Britain, a very large share of profits earned in enterprises is divided among the stockholders. They cut the melon and lived like gentlemen. In the United States, a very large share of profits has been reinvested in growth and improvement and it used to be that some of it went to the consumer.

have sufficient warning so that the comparatively slow Soviet bombers could be knocked out of the skies, before more than a tiny handful of planes approached their targets.

Other Means Of Delivery

There are other means of delivery. One possible technique is to smuggle bomb parts to a great city—say New York—the parts to be brought together later and detonated. But, again, according to air. War then takes on the pattern of World War II with land operations to be supported by tactical aviation, and adequate forces for amphibious landings and naval protection. Strictly speaking the effect is just the same as if the warring nations had agreed in advance to prohibit the use of the A-bomb as they banned the use of poison gas. Where neutralization of weapons occurs, wars are fought with the previously existing weapons.

6. America's best defense lies in better use of weapons—better training and larger numbers of good weapons than the enemy possesses—and also such a strategic distribution of military, naval and air forces in conjunction with the western democracies as to make it apparent in advance that success for Russia in land war is highly risky and doubtful. More B-36's and B-50's and other types are indicated as desirable but not a reliance on these alone.

The theory that the United States will provide intercontinental bombing by B-36's while the Europeans try to hold off the Russian armies is not likely to be palatable to European governments. In a moment of terror they may join suddenly the invading enemy and turn over the stockpile of A-bombs and give them possession of fixed land bases.

Flexible Plan Held Needed

The United States must not depend on a single plan but a flexible plan of defense. To supplement strategic bombing there must be allied forces that can engage in "pin-point bombing." This means low level operations by bombers which are protected by fighter escort planes. This means that if fixed bases in Europe are lost either by enemy fire or by surrender to land armies of the enemy, the United States and Britain must have several aircraft carrier task forces in adjacent waters to retaliate promptly. A carrier task force can disperse so quickly that if enemy planes did get through a radar screen it would not be worth while for the enemy to waste precious A-bombs on targets of single ships which are difficult to hit anyway except by pin-point bombers. A carrier task force operates in constant readiness and can furnish more concentrated anti-aircraft power in a shorter interval than any fixed base. The ratio is said to be three planes a minute that can get into the air as against one plane a minute from land bases.

Plainly the whole military strategy of the United States will now have to be re-examined and the House Armed Services Committee will soon have a real opportunity to depart from the one-weapon psychology which has dominated it thus far and appraise the advantages of what the late secretary Forrestal with prophetic wisdom called a "balanced defense."

sumer in price reduction and the perfection of quality. Businesses grew large through the reinvestment of profits. If profits are used in this manner, obsolescence disappears, because there is an urge to the use of new methods and new ideas, and there is the money to finance it without borrowing. For instance, the processes in the steel industry are constantly changing. Without such changes, steel would be too expensive and such products as the automobile would be outside the purchasing power of a large part of our population, as it is in many other countries. It is the reinvestment of profits that makes that possible.

In recent socialist years, the very word, profit, has been smeared as a bad word, because in the leveling down process now current, everything is bad which makes for progress without government. The ideas of Robert Nathan, for instance, are characteristic of one who would destroy the genius of American industry by a misuse of profits. He would divide the melon immediately.

Such men believe that the investor is only interested in large returns immediately. Even if such cupidity did motivate the American investor, high taxes have changed his attitude, for when the advantage of large returns is gone, only the exhibitionist requires colossal figures so that they might be published before the government takes the bulk of it. Most decent people want to preserve their businesses rather than to show off what they can pull down.

Some propose that profits should be divided between the worker and the stockholder and if the enterprise requires additional capital, it should get it from banks, by borrowing, or from the government, by borrowing more stock. That is unsound business. It is sacrificing an enterprise permanently for some immediate advantage to a few individuals. It is spoiling the future for the present. It is not sound planning, even if it is advocated by self-proclaimed planners. It might leave our industry where British industry found itself after the war.

Profits are a mechanism not only to make money for individuals but to keep our industry young, progressive, active and up-to-date. That mechanism must not be tampered with by those who are fanatically doctrinaire.

Youth Says He Shot Carpenter In Self-Defense

DOVER, Del., Sept. 26 (AP)—Robert Brennan, 16, testified today he killed Wade N. Woodridge—but only in self-defense and after the 67-year-old carpenter allegedly got "fresh" with Mrs. Dolly Dean, the state's star witness in the lonely hearts murder trial.

Young Brennan related, without emotion, that he shot Woodridge during a quarrel over Mrs. Dean. She's a 26-year-old war widow with whom Robert said he had had sexual relations.

Mrs. Dean has testified that Robert shot and killed Woodridge and quoted the boy as relating without emotion: "I finished the old man—I shot him in the face."

Robert is accused of murder in the shotgun slaying of the Stone Mountain, Va., carpenter. His mother, Mrs. Inez Brennan, 46, is charged as an accomplice.

As Robert calmly contradicted Mrs. Dean's testimony today, the plump widow who boarded at the Brennan farm buried her face in her hands and was led sobbing from the room.

Mrs. Dean had told the jury young Brennan killed the elderly Virginian to get his money and personal belongings.

Robert told this version today: On October 10, the night Woodridge was killed, "Dolly came out of the kitchen and told me Woodridge was getting fresh with her."

"She told me I would have to tell him to pack up and get off the farm and I told her to tell him herself."

"She told me that if I didn't do it, she would tell Ray (Robert's 23-year-old brother) I forced her to have intimate relations with me."

Robert testified that Mrs. Dean was "Raymond's girl."

He then related how Woodridge experts, it would be enormously difficult to deliver a single bomb in this way. To deliver a number sufficient to achieve a knockout blow would be impossible.

The Soviets are known to have been working feverishly on the German-developed supersonic rockets. If these rockets could be fitted with an atomic warhead, it would be virtually impossible to defend Western Europe, and ultimately the United States, from surprise attack. But the experts are certain the Soviets have not yet solved the immense problems involved in atomic rockets, and will not soon do so.

All this means that there is still some time—though no one cares to guess how much—in which Americans can sleep fairly easily in their beds. For the western Europeans, there is not even this consolation. With only a few bombs in his stockpile, Beria could destroy Paris or Rome almost without opposition. Western strategy has been based on the assumption that western Europe could be put in a position of defense by the mid-fifties, when Soviet atomic stockpiling was expected to get really under way. The whole effort to place Europe in a defense posture must now clearly be redoubled, with heavy emphasis on tactical air defense. Otherwise we must be prepared to see mounting pressure in western Europe to settle with the Kremlin on the Kremlin's terms.

No is this all. The military organization of the whole western world must be made so strong that the Kremlin will not dare to challenge it, even with surprise attack and atomic bombs. If this is really to be done, the United States must now make a production effort comparable to wartime. Even this, of course, will promise no real security. Indeed, unless the Soviet Union can somehow be brought to agree to effective control of atomic energy, there will be no real security for anyone, anywhere, any more.

Hashemite-Jordan Blast Fatal To Seven

CAIRO Sept. 26 (AP)—Seven men were killed, 11 were seriously injured and the fate of 12 others was unknown in a blast at Amman, Hashemite-Jordan today, messages received in Cairo said.

The blast occurred as 30 men were working inside a cave. The men were said to have been using dynamite. The effect of the explosion was felt in nearby districts and caused an unknown number of casualties.

King Abdullah rushed from his palace to the scene of the explosion to express his sympathy for the injured.

Somerset County, Md., Jury Indicts Acree

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., Sept. 26 (AP)—The Somerset County Grand Jury today indicted David Acree on a murder charge, setting the stage for another round in the Maryland-Virginia boundary wrangle.

Acree, 26-year-old Virginia Fisheries Commission deputy, was accused of murdering Earl Lee Nelson, 50.

Nelson, a fisherman and former policeman from Crisfield, Md., was slain last July 6 while crabbing off Smith Island near the jagged Maryland-Virginia state line in Chesapeake Bay.

Acree was arrested by Virginia officials and subsequently was cleared by the Accomack County Grand Jury on a murder charge.

Maryland officials had asked that he be turned over to them for prosecution, but the request for extradition was denied. They contended the shooting took place on the Maryland side of the line.

"It is not obstruction on our part or on the part of those who think as we do that has prevented agreement over the past years," Bevin said. "The fault lies with the Soviet Union, who have refused to consider any plan but one, based on their own inadequate proposals."

Henry Blackmer Pleads Guilty

DENVER, Sept. 26 (AP)—Henry M. Blackmer, multi-millionaire oil man who fled to France and 25 years of self-imposed exile, when the Teapot Dome scandal was exposed, pleaded guilty today to income tax evasion.

He stood, white-haired and slightly stooped, before Circuit Judge Orie L. Phillips to enter the plea which he thought would clear up his difficulties with the courts of the United States.

A few moments earlier, District Attorney Max N. Bulkeley had informed the court that when Blackmer pleaded guilty in the tax evasion case, the government would move for dismissal of four perjury indictments against him.

But Judge Phillips, to the obvious surprise of both sides, refused to accept that arrangement at face value.

"For what reason," he asked "does the government propose to dismiss these so-called perjury cases?"

Bulkeley replied that the United States Attorney General's office believed the evidence was insufficient to support the perjury charges. As early as 1933, he said, the government had indicted a willingness to drop the perjury cases if Blackmer would come to answer the evasion charges.

Navy Develops 90 Per Cent Effective 'Cold-Killer' Pill

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—The United States Naval Medical Bulletin says the Navy has developed a 90 per cent effective "cold-killer" pill if it's taken at the first sign of a cold.

It was discovered accidentally by a number of doctors treating patients with anti-histaminic drugs to relieve symptoms of hay fever and other allergic disorders.

The "cold-killer" has been named "coricidin," derived from "coriza," meaning the common cold, and "cide," to kill.

Research study on the role of anti-histaminics as cold preventives was carried out by Capt. John M. Brewster, M. C., of the Navy at the United States Naval Hospital, Great Lakes, Ill.

He treated 572 cold patients over a seven-month period in the station's cold clinic.

In the report of his findings in the Naval Medical Bulletin, Brewster said that a cold was considered to have been "aborted or cured" when all signs and symptoms disappeared completely within 24 hours of the beginning of treatment, and remained absent for at least 48 hours after all treatment was stopped.

At present the "cold-killer" is purchasable only on a doctor's prescription. It comes in tablet form. Its red coating contains a small amount of the newly-perfected anti-histaminic drug chlortrimetin.

The tablet center contains aspirin and other compounds generally prescribed for colds.

Johnson Enthusiastic As Navy Shows 'Em How

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—The Navy showed 'em today, and Secretary of Defense Johnson flew back here from an aircraft carrier 120 miles at sea enthusiastic about his closeup look at seapower in action.

Johnson told reporters: "I'm mighty proud of the Navy today." The Air Force and Army high command were there too to see how the Navy fights—part of the "cross education" among the services.

On the flight back with Johnson were Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Air Force Secretary Symington, and Assistant Defense Secretary Paul Griffiths.

R. Yvonne Zenn Becomes Bride Of John G. Sweetman

Former FSTC
Teacher Wed In Pa.

A wedding of interest here took place September 9 in First Presbyterian Church, Ambridge, Pa., when Miss Rose Yvonne Zenn, formerly on the faculty of Frostburg State Teachers College, became the bride of John G. Sweetman, New York. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. McKinny, D.D., pastor, in an elaborate setting of white and gold gladioli, ferns and palms decorating the chancel. A cathedral candle and arrangement of flowers tied with white satin ribbon marked each pew in the church.

Mrs. Thelma Franklin, Washington, D. C., was matron of honor; the bridesmaids were Mrs. Mary Pittman, Poland, Ohio; Mrs. Eleanor Millan, Youngstown, Ohio; Miss Bertha K. Zenn, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Miss Alice Zenn, New York City, all sisters of the bride, and Miss Madge Beauman, Evansville, Iowa.

Weens Franklin, Washington, served as Mr. Sweetman's best man. The ushers were Joseph N. Tosh, Beaver, Pa.; John D. Duff, Reuel B. Wolford, Wilkesburg, Pa.; Harry B. Scott, Crafton, Pa., and John L. Zenn, Jr., brother of the bride.

Homer Rodeheaver, Winona Lake, Ind., nationally known soloist, sang both during the ceremony and the wedding reception.

The bride was attired in a white satin and lace gown, fashioned with a lace moulded bodice, long tapering sleeves sheered at the shoulder line and peplum ending in a train over a circular skirt and train. A half hat of flowers held her three-quarter length veil of illusion and an old-fashioned bouquet of white roses completed her costume. All her attendants wore gold gossamer off the shoulder gowns with a soft fold bertha and bouffant skirts. Their headaddresses were matching gold gossamer bands and they carried basket shaped bouquets of gold-colored roses and gladioli.

The bride's mother wore a royal blue costume and the bridegroom's, black. Both had corsages of orchids. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Zenn, Pittsburgh, the bride was a physical education instructor at State Teachers College, Frostburg, before she entered overseas service during World War II. As an American Red Cross Hospital Recreation Worker, she was in North Africa and Italy.

During the summer of 1947 she led a youth group under the auspices of the American Youth Hostel Association and UNESCO through five countries in Europe. Since February 1946 she has been in the physical education department at the University of Maryland.

Mr. Sweetman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sweetman, New Jersey, is an electrical engineer, employed as construction superintendent for the Consolidated Edison Company, New York City. He was graduated from Stevens Institute of Technology and did graduate work at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute.

He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and American Institute of Electrical Engineers. During World War II Mr. Sweetman served as a lieutenant colonel in the United States Army. He was in action in North Africa, Italy and the Pacific Theatre. He was awarded the Legion of Merit medal during the Italian campaign.

Following the church ceremony a reception was held in the church banquet room. The bride's table, decorated with white flowers, candles and garlands of smilax, was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Covers were laid for 20.

After a Caribbean cruise and visit to the Virgin Islands, Mr. and Mrs. Sweetman will reside in Long Island City, N. Y.

Attending the wedding from Frostburg were Mrs. Sarah G. Franklin and her daughter, Miss Jane H. Grindel.

4-H Council Meeting To Be Thursday

William Powell has called a meeting of the Allegany County Executive Council of the 4-H Clubs for Thursday at 8 p. m. in City Hall.

It is for the purpose of discussing how to strengthen leadership in 4-H Clubs in the county, planning for the showing of the 4-H movie "The Green Promise" and Eight Hal-lowsen parade October 31.

The council includes the officers of the Junior Extension 4-H Clubs, 4-H Girls' Trail, 4-H Boys Federation and all 4-H Leaders.

At the quarterly meeting of the 4-H Leaders' Association Saturday, November 14 was announced as the date for the County 4-H Girls dinner.

October, November and December meetings were outlined. It was decided that the clubs taking Home Furnishing will have flower arrangement or room arrangement demonstrations for the October meeting while those taking Home Management will feature a demonstration on dish washing or cleaning a living room. Achievement programs will feature the November meetings and the Christmas parties will be held in December.

Four-H contests were discussed and the county winners of each project sent their records to the state department to be judged for the national contests.

Marble Cake

Makes 1 Loaf
2 cups sifted cake flour 1 cup lemon 3 those, milk
2 1/2 tps. Double-Acting Rumford Baking Powder 1 1/2 tps. vanilla extract
1 1/2 cups sugar 2 eggs, unbeaten
1 tsp. salt 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1/4 cup shortening

Sift flour, Rumford (all-phosphate, no alum) Baking Powder, sugar and salt into mixing bowl; drop in shortening. Add two-thirds of milk; beat on low speed of mixer for 2 minutes, or by hand, counting about 130 strokes per minute. Add remaining milk, eggs and vanilla; beat 1 minute longer. Scrape down bowl; to one half of batter add chocolate. Place alternate spoonfuls of plain and chocolate batter in greased loaf pan 9 x 5 x 3 inches. Bake in moderate oven at 375 F. about 45 minutes.

Here's a cake that will win you plenty of compliments. And it's really easy to make. Rumford Baking Powder gives you quicker, easier-beating batter and makes cake stay fresh longer. Try it and see.

Gloria Bohn Is Honored At Party

Miss Clair Lucille Malin entertained in compliment to Miss Gloria Bohn with a luncheon and miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon at her home, Washington Street. Miss Bohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde M. Bohn, Unica Bridge, is the fiancée of Perry C. Wilson, Jr., son of Mrs. Perry C. Wilson, Baltimore Pike, and the late Mr. Wilson. They are to be married October 29 at 7:30 p. m. in Centre Street Methodist Church with Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of the Living Stone Church of the Brethren officiating, assisted by Rev. Norman O. Scribner.

A pink and white color scheme was carried out with pink table appointments, candle-labers of white tapers and a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with pink rosebuds centering the table.

The shower gifts were arranged on the buffet encircling a miniature bridal scene with the bride and her attendants on white satin. The high lights of the entertainment was playing back a recording of the conversation during the opening of the gifts, which was made unknown to the guests.

The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. G. Frank Malin. Guests besides Miss Bohn were Mrs. Clyde Bohn, Miss Maude A. Bean, Miss Leona Phillips, Miss Patricia Golden, Mrs. Joseph Steger, and Mrs. K. O. Nelson.

Members of the Bowling Green 4-H Girls Club entertained with a wieners roast recently at the home of Betty and Kathryn Brewer, honoring Miss Bohn, assistant home demonstration agent for Allegany County. She was presented a gift in

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (INS)—Wonder if any quakes of conscience gnawed at the makers of Joe Stalin's a-bombs?—Our fellows had a real tough time struggling with their better selves while they were in the process of inventing that nefarious nugget which has changed the course of history.

For instance, there was the famous scientist who saw the whole thing through until after the test of our first one at Alamogordo. Then he approached the proper authorities, his eyes still haunted by what he had seen, and made this sincere request:

"If one is ever dropped on a civilian population, I demand that I be strapped to it in the bomb-bay, and fall with it."

He was transferred into radar work, one of the few who were ever permitted to bow out before it was tried on Hiroshima or Nagasaki.

Another physicist, one of the few important enough to be assigned to the lookout bunker of Prof. J. Robert Oppenheimer (only five and a half miles from the "zero" tower at Alamogordo) cracked emotionally a minute before the world's first nuclear explosion. While the almost mystic Oppenheimer attended to his fantastic duties in this last mick of pre-atomic time, the physicist, sitting on a bunk with his head in his hands, kept wailing:

"Please God... Don't let it work. ... Don't let it work."

After Alamogordo (where a third of the experts on hand feared it wouldn't work, another third thought it would be as terrific as it was, and the other third felt certain it would start a chain reaction in the nitrogen and oxygen atoms which comprise the atmosphere—and thus destroy the world) 60 of the scientists decided to get up a petition.

The petition, addressed to Chief of Staff George C. Marshall, asked that the Japanese be told we had the bomb and that they must immediately capitulate. Marshall was at Potsdam with the President. The petition was turned over to his deputy, Maj. Gen. Thomas T. Handy. Gen. Handy crossly told the scientists that they should read the papers; that Japs were fighting to the last man in the caves of the Pacific Islands and certainly would not surrender under a mere threat of something supernaturally destructive.

The 60 scientists then asked that an A-bomb be demonstrated in some safe area of Tokyo Bay, or a deserted section of Japan, and that Hirohito and his war cabinet and top brass be invited to watch it explode. This, too, Handy rejected. We know the rest.

Young scientists working at Oak Ridge, Los Alamos and Hanford could not be automatically deferred in the draft. That would have necessitated telling the civilian draft boards about their work on the embryo bomb. They were allowed to be drafted, had to go through their 13 weeks of basic training, then were transferred back to their old jobs in uniform. This presented unhappy economic ruptures. In some cases, scientists who had been paid as much as $7,500 a year were now asked to do the same work for $50 dollars a month.

Some rebelled. One such man rose in a crowded drug store in Oak Ridge one night and screamed to the workers that they, fools that they were, didn't know what they were making. He yelled "atomic bomb" a few times. He was firmly but patiently reassigned to a remote weather station in Northern Greenland.

Another scientist, one of the few ever fired while the bomb was being made, spilled the story to a friend who in turn told it to a nationally known broadcaster. The broadcaster devoted 15 minutes of air time to the topic a full year before Alamogordo. The broadcaster was seized as he stepped out of the midwestern studio from which he had spoken. He was flown through the night to Washington and given a bawling out that had him in tears.

"Are you going to put me in jail?" he asked, wringing his hands.

"Not at all," a general replied. "You're going back on the air tomorrow night. Do you think we'd take you off the air and let the public wonder why you stopped broadcasting immediately after talking about something called an atom bomb? You're going back, and you're never, never going to mention it again. See?"

There was trouble from the start with the timeless philosophy of all men of science: That their secrets must be shared, that to serve mankind properly they must recognize no borders. None of the men could ever become accustomed to the code names which were given to them by security officers. It was a chief source of their complaints and they may have had something there, one way you look at it. Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, the University of California cyclotron wizard, became simply "Oscar"—because Oscar Wilde wrote "The Importance of Being Earnest."

There were many delays in the production of our first A-bomb because of priority demands of our various armed services and our allies, including Russia. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, who held the whole bizarre experiment together by the sheer weight of character and competence, once was forced to borrow millions of dollars worth of silver from the Treasury Department to substitute for copper he could not obtain.

Somehow, I figured that one of the reasons the Russians got it faster than we thought they could is because they probably took no human feelings into consideration. We did.

It is estimated that over 526,000-000 buttons will be worn on dresses next autumn and winter.

Worry of

FALSE TEETH

Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.—Advertisement

Choose the suit that's fashion-right and figure-right for YOU! How to do it is today's secret of charm!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

I SUPPOSE you are thinking about how you are going to look in your new Fall clothes. You could hardly be a woman in this, the month of September, if it weren't so.

If you've been keeping a rigid rein on your figure and posture, and have been sticking carefully to your schedule of hair and skin grooming, you're bound to look exactly the way you are hoping to look... and I hope you do!

Even so, this is an opportune moment to check the most likely place where chinks develop in the shining armor of your loveliness. That's in your posture and walk! Such flaws are apt to go undetected for some time. But before you know it, like a slow leak in a water pipe they're suddenly as alarmingly obvious as a flood! To avoid such a calamity, use this posture detector of the Powers Girls. It will reveal any unnoticed chinks and tell you just how to mend them.

Posture Detector

1. Do you always stand with the weight on the balls of your feet? You should!

2. Are your knees held nice and stiff? They should always be relaxed and slightly bent even when you are walking. (Did that trip you? I hoped it wouldn't!)

3. Can you tilt your pelvis so that your hips are automatically tucked under? You must learn to, if you can't.

4. Is your chest elevated as if pulled up by an invisible string? It's a good looking and healthful way of holding your upper torso.

5. Are your shoulders fashionably rounded? Don't be fooled again. There's no such thing as fashionably rounded shoulders. Hold yours in a normal relaxed position.

6. When you hold your head high do you think you look too snooty to talk to? If you do, this impression probably derives from the expression on your face, and not from the graceful, dignified carriage of your head. Watch both!

7. Do you try to walk on an imaginary straight line "like the models"? The models don't do that! They walk on two parallel lines two inches apart so that there is no sway in their hips.

8. Are you trying to copy your walk from somebody else who walks well? If so, that's a mistake. Try to walk according to the rules but with your own individual style.

Tomorrow: Choose the suit that's right for YOU!

P. S. from J. R. P.

AVOID "ELEVENTH HOUR FRENZY"—That's what the Powers Girls call it when you fail to do your nails, your hair, your clothing care, on the right days. Then you are frenzied at the last minute. They avoid it, and you can too, by following a definite program during the week. There are certain days best for each grooming activity. I'll send you my "Calendar for the Pastidious" free of charge if you'll write to me in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope. Send for your Calendar today and follow the schedule of the Powers Girls. (Copyright 1949 by John F. Dille Co.)

Police Investigate Thefts In Area

City police are investigating several thefts which have been reported in the county within the past few days.

Detectives E. M. Powell and Thomas J. See are probing the theft of $21 in bills and change from a candy concession case at the Embassy Theatre over the weekend. J. P. Stinely, operator of the South Liberty Street Service Station, notified authorities yesterday that his establishment was entered Sunday night and about $1.40 in pennies taken from a paper bag in a desk drawer.

Also under investigation is the theft of an expensive diamond-encrusted woman's wristwatch belonging to Mrs. Margaret Garranto, 434 Hammond Street, Westport. The watch was taken between September 10-17 from the home of her mother, Mrs. Robert E. Lewis, 227 Offutt Street.

Carroll A. Lowe, 148 Bedford Street, has notified police that a wallet containing about $80 was stolen from his home September 17.

Merchandise valued at $59 was taken from the parked truck of Howard Douglass, 704 Hill Top Drive, early yesterday morning. The owner said several cases of canned meat were stolen from the vehicle on Virginia Avenue.

Case Will Represent State In Rate Hearing

BALTIMORE, Sept. 26 (AP) — Richard W. Chase will represent the state in the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company rate hearing before the Public Service Commission.

The appointment was announced today by Attorney General Hall Hammond.

Case resigned July 1 as an assistant general in order to resume his private practice of law.

The rate case hearings will resume Oct. 10. The C. and P. is seeking a new, permanent higher rate schedule.

Case is currently serving as chairman of the Governor's Tax Review Commission, which is studying the entire Maryland tax structure with a view to eliminating inequities.

He is a member of the Baltimore law firm of Semmes, Bowen and Semmes.

Deaths

MAYNARD M. LANIGAN
Maynard M. Lanigan, formerly of this city, died September 18 in Graplan, Pa., after a year's illness. He was a tinner by trade.

For the past nine years Mr. Lanigan had resided at Niagara Falls, N. Y. He is survived by a sister, two brothers and several nieces and nephews.

Word of his death was received here by Mrs. Bertha Uphole, 1400 Virginia Avenue. A service was held last Tuesday in Curvesville, Pa.

MILLER SERVICE
A brief service for Albert W. Miller, 71, native of Accident, who died Thursday at his residence in Philadelphia, was conducted yesterday at the George Funeral Home by Rev. Dr. H. Hall Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church. Burial was in St. Luke's Cemetery.

Palbearers were Michael F. O'Neill, Jr., Dennis A. Griffel, John W. Stepp, Harold Miller and Olin and Carl A. Glass.

County Farmers Invited To Visit University

The University of Maryland has invited about 20 Allegany County graduates of its College of Agriculture to visit the campus October 11 and bring a farmer as a guest.

Members of the promotion committee for the event are County Farm Agent Ralph F. McHenry, Assistant Farm Agent Joseph M. Steger and Arthur Phillips, Lonaconing.

Two Treated For Minor Injuries

William Patrick Rollins, 5, of 918 Bedford Street, was treated yesterday at Allegany Hospital after suffering a left thigh laceration in a fall from a tree.

Lester Haugh, 40, Oldtown, suffered a cut over his left eye in a fall at home. He was treated at Memorial Hospital.

Official Promoted

Lynn P. Compton, former assistant manager of the local Kinney Shoe Store, has been named district manager of the Washington-Philadelphia-New York area of Kinney Shoe Stores, Inc.

Equity Suits Filed

Equity suits were filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Jack M. Grayson against Novella A. Grayson and by Herman F. Appold against Audrey V. Appold.

MARK ANNIVERSARY—The Cresaptown Eagles marked their first anniversary Sunday with a visitation from state officials, a meeting of District No. 2 of which it is part, and the initiation of 18 new candidates. Among those attending the celebration are (front row, left to right) Michael L. Lindner, Adrian M. Holt, Howard D. Taylor, State Senator Robert B. Kimble, G. M. Rotruck, president

More Theorize On Deer Deaths

Three more theories on the causes of deer deaths in this area have been advanced.

A. R. Shafer, operator of the Tip Top Farm near Little Orleans, has written County Farm Agent Ralph F. McHenry that the animals have been poisoned by eating foliage in orchards sprayed with DDT. He also suggested that the deer may be victims of hoof and mouth disease.

McHenry said he did not believe that deer could climb up high enough to get leaves sprayed with the insecticide.

Another farmer, who asked to remain anonymous, said the disease may be hemorrhagic septicaemia, better known among cattlemen as "shipping fever," a bacterial disease affecting the nervous system of cattle.

Auxiliary To Hold Halloween Party

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company made plans at a recent meeting to hold a Halloween party October 25 for members and their families.

Mrs. Charles Dick was appointed treasurer to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Raymond Rosenberg, who has moved out of town.

The group voted to serve banquets at the Fire Hall at the request of any area organization wishing to hold such events there. Mrs. Donald Dunlap was named to handle requests for catering service.

After the business meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Mae Abbott and her committee.

Commission Seeks Potomac Pictures

Pictures of the Potomac River and its tributaries, particularly those showing stream pollution or the effects of pollution, are being sought by the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin.

Anyone having such pictures is requested to contact Ralph E. Fuhrman, superintendent of the Sewage Treatment Plant, 5000 Overlook Avenue, S. W., Washington, 20, D. C.

It was indicated that a contest may be sponsored with financial awards.

Ponder Defeats Blue Hills By Half A Length

Practically Clinches Three-Year-Old Title

BELMONT, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—Calumet Farm's Ponder just about clinched 3-year-old honors of the year today when he won the 57th running of the Lawrence Realization at a mile and five eighths before 18,122 fans here today.

Ponder, winner of the Kentucky Derby, American Derby, Arlington Classic and Peter Pan, scored by half a length over Brookmeade Stable's Blue Hills, the long shot of the race. King Ranch's Prophets Thumb was a length behind Blue Hills in third place.

A prohibitive favorite, Ponder returned a mutual of $2.60, $2.40, and $2.10.

In winning on Ponder, Jockey Steve Brooks completed a triple for himself and the fabulous Calumet Stable. He had previously won on the two-year-old Sunlit and Theory.

Ponder made two moves in the race. Running last, he was given his head first with six furlongs to go, moving up to second a head behind Prophets Thumb, but the rest of the field moved at the same time and Brooks took his mount back to fourth.

Around the big bend turning for home, the son of Pensive-Miss Rushin moved to the lead on the outside and outstayed Blue Hills in the stretch drive.

Warren Wright, master of Calumet, picked up a pot of $15,500 to go with his tremendous winnings this year. Ponder now has a bankroll of $85,925.

Blue Fedora Scores

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 26 (AP)—There was a photo finish and an objection to enliven proceedings in the featured Belmont Purse this afternoon. Mrs. Edward DeCamillis' Blue Fedora was victor of the six furlong dash by three quarters of a length.

J. A. Davis' Maize was second in a nose decision over M. Schwartz's Security. Herb Claggett's rider of Security, claimed a foul against the riders of the first and second horses but the stewards failed to concur with Claggett's objection.

Blue Fedora was favored by the crowd of 8,077 and paid $6.00 straight. The 4-year-old son of Opera Hat and Blue Iris was timed in 1:13 2-5 for the dash.

Laurel Feature To Little Harp

Art Rooney's Horse Scores 5th Triumph

LAUREL, Md., Sept. 26 (AP)—Shamrock Stable's Little Harp raced to an easy victory in the featured $3,500 Columbia Purse here today defeating Orleio by a length.

Isabet, the Brookfield Farm representative, finished a fading third. The winner was the second straight favorite to score and returned $5.20 straight in the mutuels.

Little Harp, in scoring his fifth triumph in twelve starts took the route along the rail in the three-quarter mile feature. He was never more than a length behind the front running Isabet and took command on the far turn.

The victor pulled away slightly in the stretch and was going easily as Orleio rushed up with his late challenge. The winner turned the six furlongs in 1:12 over a fast track. The attendance was 8,015.

The daily double of Belle Equie in the first and Bay Orders in the second amounted to $53.40.

State Reverses Decision On City Bond Issue

Citizens Committee Meeting Cancelled

KEYSER, W. Va.—A letter from the office of the West Virginia Attorney General on a proposed bond issue has cancelled the joint meeting of the Mayor and City Council and Citizens Committee scheduled for tonight.

According to City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr., a letter from the state office yesterday indicates that the Attorney General's opinion on the wording of the $35,000 bond issue for fire hall and recreation funds has been reversed.

The original plan, decided upon by the city and the Citizens Committee, called for the use of part of the $35,000 issue for payment of a 1948 bond. The remainder, approximately $24,000, would be divided between the Fire Department and the Board of Recreation.

Swadley learned by telephone from the Attorney General's office after receipt of the letter that the wording of the issue must be changed before it can gain state approval. The city attorney said the Attorney General's office originally had ruled that it would be unnecessary to itemize the various purchases of the Recreation Board, but, under the revised ruling, itemization must be mandatory.

However, Swadley stated, a less stringent bond clause may be acceptable. The attorney added that every effort will be made to avoid delays, but it will take several days for the Charleston office to receive and accept his new plan.

The city bond issue would have been used for installation of a heating system in the fire hall and other additions and the purchase of play equipment before the opening of the 1950 summer season.

Keyser Area Men Enlist In Army

KEYSER, W. Va.—M-Sgt. Virgil Burns, Keyser Army and Air Force recruiter, announced yesterday that five area men have enlisted in the Army recently.

He also said vacancies exist in both the Army and Air Force, and that unmarried veterans can now have their choice of either branch of service.

High school graduates can enlist in either and can choose one of 42 Army recruits before enlisting.

The enlistees are taking basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

Pastor Reappointed To Keyser Church

KEYSER, W. Va.—Announcement has been received here that Rev. Robert Bridges has been reappointed pastor of Evangelical Church of the Brethren. The action was taken at a three-day meeting of the Virginia Conference held at Roanoke, Va.

Other appointments in this area include Rev. Harry R. Koonz, Westernport, and Rev. C. K. Welch, Bethany Evangelical United Brethren Church, Cumberland. Rev. Floyd L. Fulk was re-elected superintendent of the conference.

Keyser Minister Will Supervise Burlington Home

Rev. Myerly To Head Methodist Orphanage

KEYSER, W. Va.—Rev. Harry S. Myerly, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, this city, has been named superintendent of the Star of Hope Child Refuge at Burlington.

The local pastor will deliver his farewell sermon next Sunday, and will then take up his new duties. He will be succeeded by Rev. Lloyd Myers, pastor of the Methodist Church at Nitro for the past seven years. Rev. Myerly has been pastor of the Grace church for almost seven years.

"The superintendency of the Burlington orphanage is a fulltime job and is the first phase of a planned program to be pursued by the Methodist Churches in West Virginia," said Rev. Myerly today upon his return to Keyser from the West Virginia conference in Charleston.

The orphanage has been operated for about 36 years by local interested persons.

Rev. and Mrs. Myerly will make their home in Burlington.

The conference named a board of trustees for the orphanage as follows: Dr. Fred Wyand, Hinton, three years; Rev. W. E. Keenan, Kingwood; Judge H. M. Calhoun, Moorefield, and Dr. Ross Linger, Romney, two years. Rev. Charles W. Paskel, Clendenin; Chester J. Compton, Keyser, and Claude S. Ebert, Grafton, one year.

The Board of Hospitals and Homes of the West Virginia Methodist Conference will have direct supervision of the Burlington Orphanage with Dr. Brown of Fairmont, chairman of the board. Mrs. Myron S. Collins, New Martinsville, is secretary.

Others on the board are: W. H. Barger, Rev. Harry S. Myerly, Keyser; Mrs. W. W. McClaghtery, Bluefield; Dr. Karl J. Myers, Phillips; L. W. Burton, Howard F. Rowley, Wheeling, and Rev. Ray Wilson, Beckley.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 26, (INS)—"Moby Dick," the famous sea story that served John Barrymore as a motion picture, is being considered for a Metropolitan Opera presentation. The Met, which has had the idea of American opera for a long time, has interested Dick Rodgers in writing the music, and will ask Oscar Hammerstein to write the lyrics.

The idea came from Gil Wilson, a young artist who drew 150 sketches of a treatment of his conception of "Moby Dick" as an opera.

He took it to Walter Huston, who was so intrigued he gave it to his son, Director John Huston. John, in turn, worked out an idea with the Met with a deal to film it if it is presented as an opera.

If Lee J. Cobb didn't play the heartbreaking role of the salesman in "Death of a Salesman" in the movies, those of us who have seen him in the play would yell to the high heavens. Personally, I couldn't see anyone else in that role, but Lee.

What a break he gets with Elia Kazan to direct him. Kazan directed "Salesman" on Broadway, and "Gentleman's Agreement" and "Pinky" for the movies. Now you know 20th Century-Fox is going to have a hand in "Salesman" some way. I hear there is a releasing deal pending.

Arthur Kennedy and Cameron Mitchell are also to be in the movie. It will be started next spring in New York.

Leo McCarey is on the Paramount lot where he made the never-to-be-forgotten "Going My Way," Bing Crosby's best picture.

Leo has two projects. One is a picture he is working on by day. The other one he's working on by night with Rev. James Keller, of the Christophers.

There have been plenty of testimonial dinners in our town but I know of none that will delight more people than the plan of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce to honor Sid Grauman, October 27, with a dinner-dance at the Blossom Room of the Roosevelt Hotel, which celebrates its 23rd year.

It was he who built the Egyptian Theater and Grauman's Chinese and made the latter a mecca for all Hollywood tourists.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at Random:

Jackie Briggs is paying much attention to Reba Fredericke, Robert Mitchum's secretary on the RKO lot. Well, it was Reba who convinced Bob that Jackie should have the job in "Carriage Entrance."

Stewart Granger, who traveled 6,000 miles to Hollywood, will leave in two weeks for England before he goes to South Africa for "King Solomon's Mines." He wants to see his two children.

Bill Pereria, handsome enough to be a movie star, is teaching architecture at USC. Bet the girls on the campus give him the once over, but Bill has a wife of his own.

Doris Duke takes off for Europe next week, but that rumored romance with Radio Commentator Jay Simms is cold. He's now concentrating on Babs Beckwith.

Warners is testing Ruth Woods, Powers model, who has captured the heart of Columnist John McLean in New York.

Second Holdup Arrest Made

Robert Matlick, about 20, the second of two youths sought in connection with an armed robbery in Frostburg Friday, was arrested yesterday in Uniontown, Pa.

Maryland State Police said Matlick is the brother of John Matlick, 18, both of Uniontown, Pa., who admitted participating in the Frostburg Auto Company robbery after his arrest Friday afternoon.

Authorities said the elder Matlick has also signed a confession stating that he and his brother staged the holdup about 5 a. m. after stealing an automobile in Uniontown.

Uniontown police said John Matlick steadfastly had refused to identify his partner in the robbery. John Matlick, according to police, has confessed to using a German Luger to obtain $50 from William Rankin, an attendant at the Frostburg service station-garage. Robert Matlick remained in the vehicle during the holdup inside the building.

Rankin wrote down the license number as the pair drove off, and notified State Police. The car, owned by Paul M. Pelly, Uniontown, was found abandoned on Summit Mountain several hours later.

Both youths face auto larceny and armed holdup charges.

IN POLICE HANDS—Both ex-convicts, Sabato Giannotti (left), 27, and John Carfagno, 31, are booked in a New York police station on charges of assault and robbery. They were arrested when they arrived to keep a "date" with Mrs. Eleanor Jolly (right), 22, an actress-model they allegedly robbed of $800 the day before. Giannotti also was charged with attacking the girl. The actress had agreed to the "date" on the prompting of police. A short time after this photo was made, Mrs. Jolly took an overdose of sleeping pills. She was revived.

Pennell, 28, both of Vindex, died within a few hours in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., and Maxine Teter, 16, also of Vindex died several days later.

Three other men received suspended sentences in the Maryland House of Correction in larceny or burglary cases. Alva Wilt, about 40, was given a one-year suspended sentence for larceny and placed under supervision of the state parole system.

Vernon Humberston, charged with larceny and receiving stolen goods, and Gilbert Alvin Lewis, charged with statutory burglary, each were given one-year suspended sentences and placed under parole. They are both in their early 20's. Calvin C. White was found guilty on a paternity charge.

The entire criminal docket was cleared yesterday morning.

McRobie Given 18 Months For Manslaughter

Junior Martin McRobie, 23, Vindex, was sentenced to 18 months in the Maryland House of Correction yesterday after pleading guilty to one of three manslaughter charges against him before Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., in Garrett County Circuit Court.

The other two cases were kept on the docket by State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover.

McRobie was the operator of a car which, early on the morning of April 11, crashed into another vehicle near Kitzmiller on State Route 38 in Garrett County.

Thirteen persons were injured in the crash. Of these, Mrs. Jeannette May Simms, 49, and Mrs. Stella

Cumberland St. Bridge Repairs Begin Monday

The Cumberland Street bridge, subject of many blasts from Commissioner William V. Keegan, seemed well on its way to being repaired yesterday and the Mayor and Council suggested other city improvements.

Notice came yesterday from Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, and E. J. Clouton, division engineer for the B. and O. Railroad, that repair of the bridge will get underway Monday.

The city gave the railroad permission to close the driveway for two weeks while the flooring is replaced with blacktop.

Mayor Thomas S. Post expressed concern for such street projects as Bond Street, which he noted was half improved and half unimproved; the extension of Wempe Drive, improvement of an alley between Laing and Montreal Avenue and repairing of the sidewalk around City Hall.

Commissioner William H. Buchholz proposed immediate steps be taken to clear Wills Creek of foliage growths. The growth increases the danger of the downtown section in event of high waters, he said.

Ball Promoted By Police, Firemen

Apparently in answer to reports to the contrary, Commissioner of Fire and Police William V. Keegan stated yesterday that the annual Police and Firemen's Ball is promoted entirely by the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association and not "outside interests."

The commissioner also announced that the association is preparing a program book covering activities of the group through its 27-year history which will be distributed the evening of the dance, Friday, November 25.

The council agreed and promised an investigation.

Upon the request of Commissioner Edgar Reynolds, Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said there should be some report this week on the improvement of the dam at Lake Gordon.

George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Everts Creek Water Company and smoke abatement engineer, said following the meeting that cost estimates are being advised. Although the same amount of work must be done, he added, the cost must be cut from $980,000 to less than half a million. This would mean delaying construction of a sedimentation basin, he said.

I do not believe Nazism as such is being revived. I do not believe that new leaders today would get far if they really attempted to resurrect Nazism or glorify Hitler. All that is too closely associated with defeat and disgraceful acts—High Commissioner for Germany John J. McCloy, in a radio speech.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Lux Reaches Middle Age

LUX THEATRE, noting my fondness for fifteenth anniversaries, has approached me diffidently and whispered in my ear that it celebrates its fifteenth on Oct. 14. It'll be quite an anniversary.

Lux's peculiar contribution to radio is the fact it was the first weekly one-hour dramatic program with a sponsor. Radio or non-visual drama was considered at the time a rash experiment, and to the television-bred young, it probably still seems not only rash but downright foolish. The first Lux broadcast, Oct. 14, 1934, was at 2:30 Sunday afternoon on the Blue network of N.B.C., in case you collect dates of this John Crosby nature.

The play was Austin Strong's staggeringly successful "Seventh Heaven," and the players included Miriam Hopkins and John Boles, both at that time bright Hollywood stars, who were willing to gamble on this new medium. Well, that was fifteen years ago. In that time, Lux has attracted dozens of imitators, but it has remained consistently the most popular dramatic

Skidmore Faces Robbery Charge

A preliminary hearing will be held this week in Martinsburg, W. Va., for Robert Francis Skidmore, 20, who gave his address as Frostburg, on armed robbery charges in connection with the holdup of the Bentz Jewelry Store there.

He also is accused of attempting to rob a Martinsburg restaurant where the proprietress, Miss Rachel Minnick, reportedly talked him out of taking the money.

"The Authority on Authorities"

PLAYING UPSIDE DOWN
IF YOU EVER try one of the artificial bidding systems, such as the Vanderbilt or Whist Club system, in which an opening bid of 1-Club merely shows appreciable high card strength without indicating anything about clubs, you are likely to have some funny experiences.

With either that opening, or when you use the artificial 2-Clubs forcing bid, you may find yourself eventually playing the hand as declarer without a solitary trump in it, but a lot of them in the dummy. In effect then you treat the dummy as declarer and your own hand as the dummy, and are playing upside-down, as it were.

Anyhow, happy fifteenth anniversary, Lux. As a little commemorative gift, I pass along to you the words of that other famous soap salesman, Bob Hope, which, I think ought to be engraved around the Lux office smelcape.

"We don't make any large claims for our soap. We assume you're reasonably clean in the first place."

Some Dairies Report Low Coal Supplies

Operators Predict Emergency If Mine Strike Continues

A few dairies in Allegany County are running low on coal supplies and an emergency may result if the current mining strike continues for any length of time, dairymen reported yesterday.

However, dairy operators said that no concerted action has been taken as yet.

Meanwhile, the Allegany County Health Department reported it had requested United Mine Workers officials for aid in supplying coal to dairies if their need becomes critical.

Mines throughout the nation have been shut down since last Monday pending negotiation of a new contract.

One UMW source said that coal supplies to "institutions of life and health" will not be allowed to run too low.

He pointed out that many coal consumers wait until cold weather or "until something like this comes along" to try to get their coal, instead of buying it during summer months when miners' employment would be benefited.

Coal is vital to dairy operation because heat is needed in the pasteurization process, one operator explained. He pointed out that many dairies lack facilities to store enough coal for long periods of time.

A spot check of local bakeries indicated that their coal reserve is fairly ample, with no emergency foreseen at the moment. A number of bakeries use oil as well as coal, it was explained.

Breweries and laundry companies contacted last night also reported that their operations have not been affected as yet by the mine strike.

Activity At Minimum
Meanwhile, activity in the coal fields was reported at a minimum although authorities said a small band of pickets were roving through the George's Creek area most of yesterday.

At Westport a group estimated at between 25 and 30 men halted Ivan G. "Ben" Herman from unloading coal at the McIntyre Bakery there. Witnesses said there were several tons of coal on the truck when the pickets appeared.

Investigating officers, however, said the pickets did not create a disturbance. They told Herman he could not unload the coal and when he informed them it was storage coal they told him: "Take it back and put it in storage then."

Sheriff Edward Muir who was called to the Westport section at noon returned shortly before 5 p. m. and reported that the pickets had disbanded "and there was no trouble in the area."

Authorities did report two non-union mines that were closed Saturday resumed work today. They said the pickets visited the operations but left when foreman ordered them off the property.

On the Allegheny Front section of West Virginia State Police reported that no pickets have been seen since the operations closed Friday.

City Horseshoe Match Scheduled

A semi-final match in the City Horseshoe League's championship tournament is scheduled this afternoon at 5 o'clock, when the Export Brewers will meet Arch Street on the Export court, according to Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director.

Union Laundry team defeated Harding Avenue, fourth place team, by 9 to 6 in the first round of the championship playoffs Saturday.

Winner of today's match will play Union Laundry, with the best two out of three games deciding the championship.

Meanwhile, Hoey said that two local horseshoe players won honors in the Tri-State Open Horseshoe Tournament held in Washington, D. C. last week.

Fred Hamilton of the Export Brewers placed second in the Class B division, while Delbert Proudfoot of the Union Laundry Team placed third in the Class C division.

Tournament officials notified Hoey that Hamilton and Proudfoot will receive engraved trophies. Eight local men from those two teams went to Washington, with Ray Wharton and V. Wharton of Export also qualifying.

Players from Washington, Maryland and Virginia took part.

South End Republican Club Will Elect

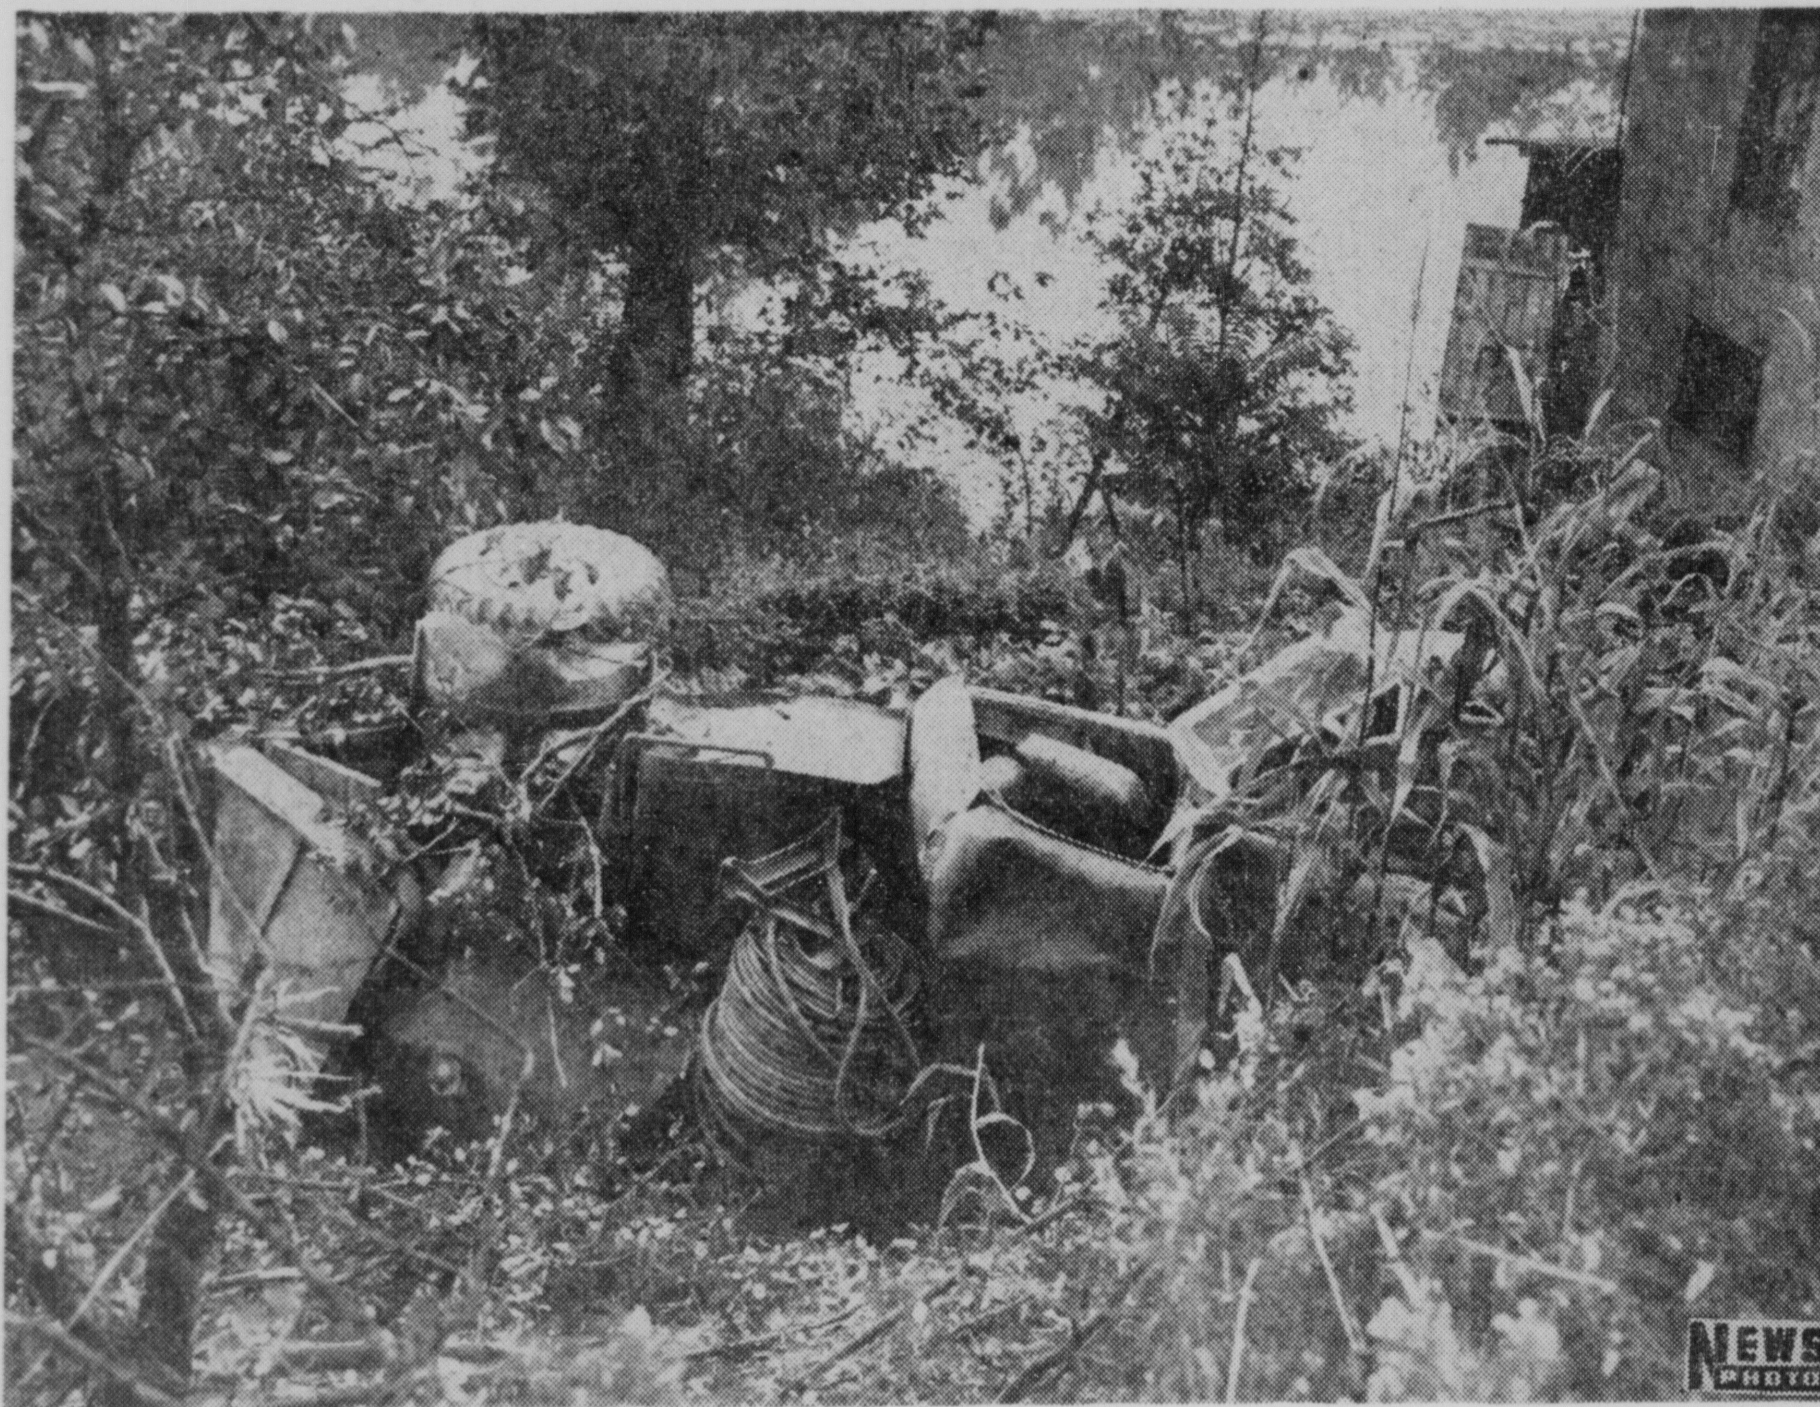

The South End Republican Club will hold its annual nomination and election of officers tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the club home.

Present officers are Victor Hebb, president; Jerry Beebe, vice president; Milton Ryan, treasurer, and Howard Lary, secretary.

It is reported that many candidates have indicated they will seek posts.

Free On Bond

Robert D. Sturtz, Jr., 51 Greene Street, arrested on a charge of embezzlement, was released from Washington County Jail, Hagerstown, Sunday night after posting $500 bond. He will be given a preliminary hearing this morning on a charge that he embezzled $75 from the Rusco Window and Supply Company, Hagerstown.

Driver Escapes In 25-Foot Plunge

A tree surgeon, William Shipley, 41, escaped serious injury yesterday when his truck ripped up five guardrail posts and plunged over a 25-foot embankment on Route 28 at the limits of Ridgely, W. Va. Chief of Police Jesse Elkins said the driver was returning from work along West Virginia highways where he was burning weeds and was crowded off the road. Damage to the truck was listed as "not too bad." Shipley, a resident of Loch Haven, Pa., was treated at Allegany Hospital and discharged. No charges were preferred.

St. Mark's Will Buy Parsonage On Ridgewood

Brick Residence To Cost $15,500

The congregation of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church has voted to purchase a two-story brick residence at 520 Ridgewood Avenue for a new parsonage.

This was announced last night by Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor. Rev. Clapp said the purchase price was $15,500.

Balloting was held at the Sunday morning worship service, with the transaction approved by a vote of 95 to 12.

The Ridgewood Avenue property is owned by Clyde Slider.

Rev. Clapp said the new parsonage will probably be placed in use before Christmas.

The present parsonage adjoins St. Mark's Church, which is located at the corner of Park and Harrison Streets. The 12-room structure has been used since the church was built about 1912.

After the new parsonage is in use, the former building will be used as church school classrooms with the exception of one room to be reserved as the pastor's study.

Rev. Clapp said the church school numbers about 200 children and adults. Classes have been held in the basement of the church but attendance has increased to the point where more space is needed, he explained.

About three years ago the church purchased a lot on Bedford Road for future use in constructing a parsonage, but scarcity of materials and high prices during the war forced abandonment of the project. Rev. Clapp said funds from sale of that property and from the church building fund will be used in purchasing the Ridgewood Avenue property.

Life Underwriters To Meet Friday

The September meeting of the Cumberland Association of Life Underwriters will be held Friday at 1 p. m. at the Elks Club with Robert O. Collins, newly elected president, in charge.

The meeting, arranged by James T. Kenney, program chairman, will include a short business meeting, followed by a movie, "Air Power Is Peace Power."

A drive to enroll at least 100 members will get underway at the meeting. The present membership is about 60.

Tribute Paid To First Community Chest Organizers At Women's Tea

A challenge to make this year's Red Feather Drive a memorial to those who organized the Cumberland Community Chest was presented to the nearly 100 Women's Division workers who attended a tea yesterday at the home of Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum, Buckingham Road.

In welcoming the guests, Mrs. Rosenbaum, one of the organizers of the chest, recalled the earlier days of the organization.

Mentioning such names as the late Albert Grant, chairman of the first drive, Thomas B. Finan and Mrs. Robert R. Henderson, she urged the women to follow their example.

Following Mrs. Rosenbaum's welcome, Mrs. John S. Cook, division chairman, introduced her own leaders.

She remarked that, just as the United States must take the initiative in 1949, so persons in individual communities are thrust into leadership for such causes as the support of the Chest's nine member agencies.

Mrs. Cook added that supplies will be given out at the "kickoff" dinner October 4 at Central Y.M.C.A. Mrs. Norman E. Goldblatt, a daughter, and Mrs. Simon Rosenbaum, II, a daughter-in-law of Mrs. Rosenbaum, presided at a tea table decorated with fall flowers.

Others assisting were Mrs. M. T. Powers, Mrs. S. A. Amick, Jr., Mrs. Nat. Guggenheimer and Mrs. William M. Somerville.

Color Slides To Be Shown At Meeting

Color slides taken in the Grand Canyon area and Bermuda will be shown by George Hazelwood at a meeting of the Cumberland Camera Club tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at Knights of Malta Hall.

Jack Hershiser will serve as judge of the monthly black and white print contest. Members who wish to submit prints are asked to leave them at Harvey's Store before 5 p. m. today or call John R. King, 3901-W, who will collect them.

The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Getty May Succeed Fey

It appeared likely last night that Gorman Getty, Lonaconing, will be the next attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

John T. Fey, present attorney, has notified the board that he will resign effective Friday. Fey will become professor in George Washington University Law School, Washington.

Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., president of the board, said last night that he would support Getty's appointment. He added that the successor would probably be appointed Friday.

Commissioner James Holmes also indicated last night that Getty would be named to the post.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert said that Fey had not yet submitted his written resignation to the board and that no action could be taken until it was received. None had heard of any others seeking the position.

Getty served as acting attorney to the board for three months this year while Fey was serving as delegate to the state legislature.

Army Recruiters Granted Holiday

For their work in helping the Martinsburg W. Va., main station go over its 99-man September recruiting quota, the staff of the Cumberland Army and Air Force Recruiting Station will be granted a holiday Friday and Saturday.

M. Sgt. Clarence Biehn said the vacation was ordered last Friday when Capt. Nick Hertges, Martinsburg commanding officer, inspected the station.

Although final figures are not in, Sgt. Biehn said the local office expects to be awarded the Second Army pennant for the month.

News Briefs

The Mayor and City Council will meet Friday at 10 a. m. to pass the payroll.

Chest X-Ray Unit To Visit Cresaptown

The Cresaptown Lay Health Group is making plans in preparation for the visit of the State Tuberculosis Association's mobile X-ray unit to that community on Friday.

The unit will be stationed at Keister's Garage, and free chest X-rays will be available from 1 to 7 p. m. on that day.

Mrs. Lester McGill and Mrs. John Fazenbaker are in charge of securing 10 lay workers to assist with registration, which will be held in the basement of the garage.

VFW Has 2,400 Member Goal

"The VFW Is A Good Outfit," is the 1950 membership campaign slogan of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, according to Peter V. Carpent, general membership chairman of Henry Hart Post No. 1411.

The post has a goal of 2,400 members for 1950, which will be an all time high. The most members ever enrolled in a single year, Carpent said, was 2,300.

Carpent named four co-chairmen last night along with a large membership committee and called a campaign meeting for Thursday at 8 p. m. at the post home.

Co-chairmen include Vernon Crabbe, Frank Webb, Leroy Neld and Ellis Shobe.

Committee members include George Speis, Staunton Byers, Raymond Reynolds, William Blair, James Robinson, Glenn Watson, David Rinker, Vermont Zollner, James Kloran, Earl Smith and Donald White.

Plans are underway to zone the city into four sections with a team to work in each section. Carpent hopes to contact every eligible veteran and extend an invitation to join Henry Hart Post. If a veteran isn't eligible for VFW membership, because he did not serve out of the continental United States, he will be urged to join the American Legion or some other recognized veteran organization, Carpent declared.

Zeiler To Appear Before County Board

John Gilbert Zeiler, attorney for the Public Housing Administration, Washington, D. C., will appear at the meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners this morning at 10 o'clock to discuss the possibility of a county housing authority.

Zeiler appeared here last week when the Cumberland Housing Authority was inaugurated.

Scheduled to attend the meeting are F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Carpenter's Local 1024 (AFL), and Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers of America (CIO).

Food Costs Steady

The cost of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce food basket stood at $8.64 last week.

The 16 items cost two cents less the last week in August and have varied only about three to four cents since July.

Weather

Unfortunately, there are not enough new adjectives to describe yesterday, one of a series of those glittering days peculiar to early fall. Suffice it to say that the sun shined, the thermometer went up to 68 and down to 38. For a week, the late night temperature remained up at the 56 mark. However, today will be cloudy and possibly rainy.

Construction In September Hits $108,125 Total

Construction in Cumberland hit its highest point in the past year during September, with building permit valuations amounting to $108,125.

Thirty-two permits were issued during the past month, 16 for new construction amounting to $79,725 and the remaining 16 for additions or improvements totaling $28,400, according to a report issued by the city engineer's office.

Largest single item was a permit for a new store building at the site of the disastrous 1941 explosion on North Centre Street. The structure is estimated to cost $30,000.

This month's total is the highest since last September, when 35 permits were issued for a total valuation of $136,800.

New construction includes six permits for new homes estimated to cost $40,500. This is considerably less than the 11 permits granted for new homes last September, with valuation totaling $51,800.

Six applications for occupancy permits were made during the month. Four were granted outright, and the two appealed to the board of Zoning Appeals were both approved by that group.

A permit was granted yesterday to George Manley to enclose a front porch at 103 Wills Creek Avenue with frame walls. Work is estimated to cost $100.

State Teacher Session Planned

Several Allegany County teachers are expected to be among the 125 Maryland educators scheduled to attend the Institute of Leadership Training, sponsored by the Maryland State Teachers' Association, September 30, October 1 and 2 at Braddock Heights.

Dr. Andrew D. Holt, president of the National Education Association, will give the keynote address, "Making Our Professional Organizations Tick," on Saturday morning, October 1.

Following Dr. Holt's address, a panel discussion, "How to Run a Professional Organization," will be presented by a group of the leaders of the conference.

Among the educators who will be attending in the capacity of consultants and leaders are Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools; Dr. Earle T. Hawkins, president, State Teachers College, Towson; Dr. Agnes Samuelson, assistant editor of the National Education Association Journal, and Harry F. Frank, Baltimore Polytechnic Institute.

Four discussion workshops are scheduled to take place and will deal with the topics: "How to Run a Professional Association," "Purposes and Activities of Professional Associations," "Committees and Their Correlation in Professional Associations," and "Professional Ethics of Associations."

C&A Gas Co. Sues To Halt Building On Right Of Way

Asks Court To Stop Construction Work

The owners of a partially completed building which the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company contends is on its right of way were ordered yesterday to show cause why the Circuit Court should not halt construction and order the present structure destroyed.

The bill of complaint, filed by the company through its counsel, James Alfred Avirett, states that Manson M. Durr and his wife were given three specific notices that a right of way existed through the land located on Route 220 a mile and a half south of Rawlins.

Despite the notices, the bill states, the owners who purchased the land August 18, 1949, went ahead with the construction which will "impede" the company in making repairs to a 12-inch high pressure gas line.

The court was informed that at least eight feet of clearance is needed on either side of the gas main to effect proper maintenance and repair. Interference, the bill states, "will jeopardize the welfare and security of thousands of gas consumers in Allegany County."

In presenting its case, the company stated that the right of way has been maintained for over 20 years, first by the West Virginia and Maryland Gas Company and then by the present company which is a continuation under a new name.

At the time the defendant purchased the property he was fully advised that the high-pressure transmission line ran through the property, the bill of complaint states. However, the construction work was started and has continued to progress.

"The invasion" of the company's right of way will cause irreparable damage unless the defendants are restrained, the court was informed by the bill.

Associate Judge George Henderson ordered the defendants to show cause on or before October 7 why construction should not be stopped and the work already completed removed.

Chicago Lawyer To Speak Here

Four Cumberland organizations will hear addresses today by George E. Hall, Chicago, member of the Bureau of Legal Medicine and Legislation of the American Medical Association.

Hall will speak on "A Positive Program for the Nation's Health" at a joint meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs at 12:15 p. m. in Central Y.M.C.A.

The Advanced Gifts Committee of the Cumberland Community Chest will hold its second report meeting in conjunction with the luncheon.

Using the topic, "Legal Medicine and the Professions," Hall will speak to the Allegheny-Garrett County Medical Society and Allegany County Bar Association at a joint dinner meeting at 6:30 at the All Ghian Shrine Country Club.

Dr. Leslie E. Daugherty, secretary of the Medical Society, made arrangements for Hall to speak at two meetings. Edwin P. Hinkle, program chairman of the Cumberland Rotary Club, is in charge of the luncheon meeting.

First Baptist Plans Dedication Of New Church Annex October 9

First Baptist Church, 212 Bedford Street, will dedicate its new church annex at a service planned Sunday, October 9, according to an announcement yesterday by Rev. O. Afton Linger, pastor.

Sunday, October 2, will be observed as Rally Day and will mark the first use by Sunday School departments of the recently acquired building.

Following a week of "Sunday School Enlargement and Enlistment," with Rev. R. I. Berghauer, state Baptist secretary of Sunday School and Training Union, the First Baptist Sunday School observed "Promotion Day" in Sunday School and Training Union last Sunday, and laid plans for the church-wide "Rally Day."

Rev. Linger said the Sunday School will give a special program, as they meet in the auditorium.

Truck Talks Will Resume This Week

Contract negotiations between Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL) and eight Cumberland trucking firms are expected to resume later this week.

Charles E. Bramble, union president, said the meeting probably will be held either Wednesday or Thursday.

Cumberland truck drivers rejected an offer of seven cents an hour for city drivers and increases of from 54 to 90 cents in trip rates on September 18.

Bramble said the drivers are insisting on a nine cent boost for city drivers and comparable trip rate increases.

He said Hagerstown drivers on Sunday accepted a seven cent boost for city drivers but insisted on further increases in trip rates.

E. W. Butler, business agent of Local 992 there, told Bramble he would ask the operators for another meeting.

Smoke Control Seals Received By Department

Devices Designed For Enforcement Work

The Smoke Abatement Department yesterday received a shipment of 1,000 devices for use in sealing boilers or other heating apparatus as part of its enforcement program, according to George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer.

The seals consist of lead pellets, about the size of a dime, attached to steel wire, which can be placed on fuel devices or power controls of boilers.

Equipment also includes a midge press with which each of the seals will be stamped with the letters "DSA" for Department of Smoke Abatement.

The devices are typical of those used in other cities, Hitchcock said.

Cumberland's smoke control ordinance provides that after an owner has been notified of three or more violations within one year, he must show cause why the equipment should not be sealed.

If he fails to do so, the equipment will be sealed until Hitchcock issues a certificate that the condition has been corrected and the installation complies with the ordinance. However, the owner has the right of appeal from Hitchcock's decision to the Smoke Control Advisory and Appeal Board within 10 days.

The ordinance provides fines of from $25 to $100 if the seals are broken without authority, Hitchcock pointed out.
